Department of Political and Social Sciences

The European University Institute's mandate – as set out in Article 2 of its founding Convention – is to contribute, collectively and individually, to the development of the cultural and scientific heritage of Europe, through "teaching and research at the highest university level" while also developing "interdisciplinary research programmes on the major issues confronting contemporary European society", and to act as a "forum for the exchange and discussion of ideas and experience". Academic excellence, interdisciplinarity, and public engagement have always been the foundation of the EUI.

The European University Institute is looking for candidates with a distinguished record of scholarly publications and experience in postgraduate teaching and doctoral supervision, to fill a

Chair in International Politics

The Department of Political and Social Sciences seeks candidates for a Chair in International Politics.

Candidates should have a strong scholarly record in international relations theory and have substantial original empirical work in one or more sub-fields of the discipline that contributes to the department's innovative intellectual agenda.

The position is to be filled by 1 January 2028 or as soon thereafter as can be satisfactorily arranged.

The EUI is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to descriptive, intellectual, and institutional diversity. We find such diversity to be a source of enrichment and strongly encourage applications from the most diverse pool of candidates.

Interested applicants should consult Open competitions for academic posts • European University Institute (eui.eu) for further particulars.

Deadline for receipt of applications: 27 January 2027.

Please note that the EUI will be closed from 21 December to 6 January 2027 (inclusive). Any queries received during this period will be addressed upon the Institute's reopening.
