

Profile:

Lucas Lixinski is a Ph.D. Researcher at the European University Institute. During his stay at the EUI, he has been an editor of the European Journal of Legal Studies (EJLS) for two years, and the Editor-in-Chief of this Journal for one of these two years. He has also been working as an assistant to Professor Francesco Francioni in the preparation of seminar materials and several other projects.

Prior to coming to the EUI, Lucas completed his LL.M. in Human Rights Law at Central European University (Budapest, Hungary), with an extra specialization in European and WTO Law. He completed his LL.B. at the Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul (Porto Alegre, Brazil) He has been a Visiting Researcher at Columbia University and New York University, and an exchange student at the University of Texas-Austin. He has also served as a clerk at the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, and interned for the Brazilian Ministry of Justice.

His Ph.D. research focuses on the protection of intangible cultural heritage and traditional culture in international law. Besides cultural heritage law, his research interests also cover international human rights law, public international law, economic integration law (with special reference to MERCOSUR) and comparative constitutional law.