INTRODUCTION

2013 was a period of both consolidation of achievement and significant transition and change. It was characterized by an unprecedented level of turn-over in key administrative positions which also coincided with a renewed momentum to examine our mission, take stock and look to the future.

The process of rethinking and change did not start with the installation in September of a new President, Director of the Robert Schuman Centre, Director of the Max Weber Program, Director of the ICT Service and shortly after Director of Academic Services.

It was already under the inspired leadership of Marise Cremona that in addition to carrying out the ordinary business of the Institute, which is detailed below, many of these key appointments were made and the Institute launched important processes of reflection concerning issues such as the aims, emphases and synergies of our doctoral and postdoctoral programmes; the future research foci of the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies; our staff hiring, evaluation and promotion procedures; and, more generally, how we might go forward in defining ourselves within what is now a global and not-strictly European academic context.

DOCTORAL AND POST-DOCTORAL PROGRAMMES

High numbers of candidates continue to apply for doctoral grants in our four departments of Economics; History and Civilization; Law; and Political and Social Sciences. Out of the 1380 applications received in 2013, a total of 122 new researchers from 29 countries were recruited. With this new cohort the Institute has a total of 603 registered researchers: 110 in Economics; 167 in History; 157 in Law; and 169 in SPS. The gender composition for all registered researchers remains at around 45% female and 55% male; the balance inverting only in the Department of Law, where 55% of researchers are women.

The Institute's research population is ever more international. Last year our registered researchers (all cohorts) represented 47 countries from around the world. They were supported by the national grant authorities of 20 contracting member states of the European Union (Austria, Belgium, Cyprus, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Luxemburg, Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, and the United Kingdom) and three non-contracting countries (Norway, the Russian Federation, and Switzerland). And yet, there are important areas of the world which are greatly underrepresented in our doctoral researcher cohort – an important challenge for the Institute in future years.

We are also concerned by the uneven recruitment numbers from among our Member States. An experimental recruitment campaign, led by the Dean of Studies and the Director of Communications was launched in the Autumn of 2013 to increase the level of high-quality applications and to target particularly under-represented countries for the 2014/15 academic year. This initiative included a number of road trips involving on-campus information sessions run by EUI faculty, mass mailing, and targeted social media campaigns run by the Communications Service together with the Academic Service. The qualitative results of this campaign will be studied after the 2014 spring selection procedure with a view of refining and improving our future recruitment efforts.

Our researchers continue to broaden their experience by taking advantage of various visiting and exchange opportunities abroad. Last year around 50 of our researchers were visitors at other universities such as New York University, the University of California at Berkeley, the University of Wisconsin at Madison, the London School of Economics, EHESS in Paris, and elsewhere. In turn, the EUI hosted about the same amount of visiting doctoral researchers.

107 researchers defended their doctoral theses at the Institute in 2013. A recent longitudinal study for the Institute, carried out by a research team directed by SPS Professor Hans-Peter Blossfeld, (full report in Annex 1) reveals significant improvements in completion rates compared to the past among the cohorts matriculating since 2001. We are also pleased with the excellent placement rates our graduates enjoy after they obtain their degree. Recent figures show that 65% went on to pursue an academic career while 35% took up employment in international organisations or national agencies, and in the private sector. An in-depth look at placement among our Economics Phds is possible thanks to a pilot study carried out by that department; results are available in Annex 2 of this report.

The EUI's post-doctoral programmes continue to be very attractive to young academics from all over the world. The Max Weber and Jean Monnet Post-doctoral Programmes received over 1500 applications in 2013. Around sixty scholars were selected for these programmes. In addition, the Institute hosted a number of externally-funded fellows through the Marie Curie Programme (9), the Canon Foundation Fellowship (1), the Academy of Finland Fellowship (1) and the Australian-European University Institute Fellowships Association Inc. (1).

Finally, our research community was further enriched by the presence of 31 advanced scholars across the disciplines who visited the Institute on Fernand Braudel Senior Fellow-ships.

FACULTY

The four departments and the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies welcomed several new faculty members in 2013, many of whom were appointed in 2012. Brief biographies of these new Institute members are found later in this report, within the departmental descriptions.

New arrivals in the Department of History and Civilization include Professor of Early Modern History of Europe Regina Grafe; Intellectual History Professor Ann Thomson; History of Science Professor Stephane Van Damme and Professor Alexander Etkin, who has taken up the recently established Mikhail M. Bakhtin Chair in Russia-Europe relations. In the Department of Economics, Professor of Econometrics Andrea Ichino and Professor of Applied Economics Matthias Sutter both arrived in September. Professor of Microeconomics David Levine took up a joint chair with Economics and the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies.

Stefano Bartolini returned to the Department of Political and Social Sciences in the Autumn after having directed the Robert Schuman Centre since 2006.

The vacancy for Director of the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies was filled by Professor Brigid Laffan, who took up her post in September. Also newly arrived at the RSCAS is Professor Bernard Hoekman, who will run the Global Economics Research Area for the Global Governance Programme.

Several new appointments were also made in 2013. These include, in the SPS Department, Professor in International Relations Jennifer Welsh and Professor Philipp Genschel, who will hold a joint chair in European Public Policy between SPS and the RSCAS. Professor Dierdre Curtin will hold a joint chair in LAW and the RSCAS. The Economics Department will welcome Professor of Econometrics Juan Dolado and Macroeconomics Professor Ramon Marimon, who left his post as Director of the Max Weber Programme.

The vacancy for director of the Max Weber Programme for Postdoctoral Studies will be filled by Professor Richard Bellamy, who will arrive at the EUI in May 2014.

In 2013 the Institute bid farewell to Department of History and Civilization faculty Bartolomé Yun Casalilla and Antonella Romano. We thank them for the leadership and dedication they showed over the years as Head of Department and Director of Graduate Studies in HEC, respectively. Both the programme and the researchers passing through it most certainly flourished thanks to their contributions. The Economics department saw the departure of three of its professors. Fernando Vega Redondo, who for some years was also chair of the Economics Exam Committee, left at the end of August. Massimiliano Marcellino and Elena Carletti, both joint ECO-RSCAS chairs, also left the department. They remain part-time, however, at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies into 2014.

RESEARCH

EUI research activities in 2013 ranged from individual projects to multi-disciplinary research centres to large-scale international collaborative projects. The fruits of these activities are evident in the nearly 1000 new academic publications reported by EUI members, in the hundreds of academic events hosted at the EUI (listed later in this report), and in the regular presence of EUI faculty voices heard in the press and in policy debates last year.

In 2013 EUI faculty ran nine research projects selected for funding by the EUI Research Council in 2012. In the Department of History and Civilization, Professors Pavel Kolář and Federico Romero received grants for their respective projects Physical Violence and Trans-formation of State in 'Post-Cold-War' Europe (1956 – Present) and Concepts of Europe in the Socialist Space. LAW professors Loïc Azoulai and Fabrizio Cafaggi received continued funding for the Centre for Judicial Cooperation, while Nehal Bhuta and Ruth Rubio Marin received a grant for Building State Legitimacy in Transitional Contexts: The Role of International Law and Jus Post Bellum – Implications for European Engagement with State-building and Democratization in the Mediterranean. Dennis Patterson, also a LAW Professor, had support for The Guilty Mind: The Defence of Insanity and the Use of Neuro-scientific Evidence in European Courts and the LAW department received support for the project Euro-Crisis Law. Constitutional Implications for EU Member States. SPS Professor László Bruszt and LAW Professor Fabrizio Cafaggi received a grant for Governance of Transnational Regulative

Integration and Development. The Research Council also awarded funds to the Economics Department for Financial Crisis. Sources, Propagation and Policy Responses. Finally, SPS professor Donatella della Porta received a research grant for Contextualizing Contestation: Protest Targeting the EU in Comparative Perspective.

The EUI receives an important amount of external funding for its research activities, totalling €10,598,019 in 2013. These funds arrive in the form of grants or tenders for specific projects, as well as support for a number of externally funded academic chairs. Specific projects and funded chairs may be found listed in this report under their home academic unit.

The EUI hosted seven major on-going projects funded by grants from the European Research Council, and welcomed an eighth ERC grant run by former EUI Professor Luisa Passarini, Principal Investigator of the project. BABE-Bodies across borders in Europe and Beyond, was launched in June 2013 and is based in the Department of History and Civilization, to which Professor Passarini will return on a part-time basis.

In addition to the European Research Council, numerous projects receive support from other EC, public and private bodies. These funders include but are not limited to the Directorate Generals for Research, Climate Action, Education and Culture, Economic and Financial Affairs, Home Affairs, Justice, Communication, and Competition; the European Training Foundation, the European Parliament and the International Organization for Migration.

Several large research centres and programmes at the EUI, including the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies' (RSCAS) Migration Policy Centre, the Florence School of Regulation, and the Global Governance Programme continue to expand their work and reach in the areas of research and training.

Thanks to external support, in 2013 the EUI continued to have resources for a number of our faculty chairs. We receive support from the Portuguese Government, the Russian Federation, the Swiss Government, the Research Council of Norway and the Luxembourg Government respectively for the Vasco da Gama chair, the Mikhail M. Bakhtin Chair, the Chair in Federalism and Democracy, the Stein Rokkan Chair, and the Pierre Werner Chair on European Monetary Integration. The Loyola de Palacio Chair on Energy and the Tommaso Padoa Schioppa Chair at the RSCAS are funded thanks to the generosity of various donors.

ADMINISTRATION

The various services have provided brief reports for this publication, which may be found in Part 2. Complete reports on the services and administration may be found in the Secretary-General's Activity report on 2013. Here below I highlight a few especially significant decisions for the EUI community as a whole.

First, after a thorough review the EUI published its new Data Protection Policy. This policy aims to protect the fundamental rights and freedoms of natural persons, and in particular their right to privacy, with respect to the processing of personal data by the EUI. The policy also clearly defines the Institute's obligations in the processing of personal data by the EUI and by processors acting on behalf of the EUI, which are carried out in the exercise of the Institute's activities wholly or partially by automated means, or in the context of a filing system. To ensure the correct application of this 2013 policy and provide guidance to Institute members, the legal advisor of the Institute, seated in the Secretary-General's office, has assumed the additional role of data protection officer.

Another important decision for the administrative community included a revision in the self-evaluation and promotion exercises of the Institute. A working group on these issues was created in 2012, and in April 2013 President Marise Cremona signed a Decision on the Staff Assessment Exercise (12/2013, 5 Apr 2013) and a Decision on the Promotion Exercise (13/2013, 5 Apr 2013). These decisions introduced three major changes, namely, the separation of the evaluation from the promotions procedure; the introduction of Maximum Numbers of Proposals for Promotion per Service/Unit with the publication of proposals at Service/Unit level; and the introduction of an Appeals committee regarding promotions.

With regard to staff changes, in March 2013 ICT Director Marco Rulent was assigned to the Historical Archives of the European Union. In the interim search period for a new director of that service, Veerle Deckmyn, then-Director of the EUI Library, took over the service. In September, Mr David Scott was appointed as new director of ICT.

In the Autumn of 2013 Andreas Frijdal, long-time Director of the Academic Service, announced his intentions to retire from the Institute in early 2014. After consultation with our Heads of Service and with the Executive Committee of the Academic Council, it was decided to appoint an internal candidate, Veerle Deckmyn, to the post. This decision was meant to give stability to EUI governance in light of the recent transition to a new Principal.

INFRASTRUCTURE

2013 saw a number of significant geographical shifts for the administration, the Max Weber Programme for Postdoctoral Studies, and the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies. In line with the roadmap regarding the allocation of space designed in 2012 by ad interim President Cremona, nearly 200 people were relocated between July and December 2013. This plan involved works in all existing buildings and the addition of one new building. As a result, the Max Weber Programme was moved to the Badia, the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies gained Villa la Fonte and Villa Paola, and the Secretary-General's Office, the Communications Service, the Real Estate and Facilities Service, the Personnel Service, and the Budget and Financial Service were moved to Villa Salvati.

VISITS AND EVENTS

A key component of the intellectual life and community of the EUI is the multitude of academic events it holds each year, including seminars, lectures, conferences, workshops and training. A list of these events may be found later in the report; here I draw attention to those connected to the Presidency.

In February the Institute wrapped up its Debating Europe series, which, since 2011, has brought together academics, decision-makers and opinion leaders to debate the process of European integration and other issues facing European society. For this event we were very pleased to welcome Professor Richard J Evans, Regius Professor of History and President of Wolfson College at the University of Cambridge, who spoke on 'Germany's place in Europe: from Bismarck to Merkel'.

The State of the Union 2013 took place on 9 May in Palazzo Vecchio. This high-profile conference, in its third edition, brought together European and national-level policy-makers, leading academics, and opinion and business leaders to discuss the present and future prospects of the European Union. Among the speakers for the 2013 conference were José Manuel Barroso, Laura Boldrini, Emma Bonino, Cecilia Malmström, Emma Marcegaglia, David Miliband, Mario Monti and Martin Schulz to name but a few. The event was a great success and resulted in the volume The State of the Union 2013: Collected Perspectives.

In 2013 the Institute was also pleased to host visitors from the European Commission and the European Parliament. In late May Xavier Prats Monné, Deputy Director-General for Education and Culture at European Commission gave a lecture on 'The Role of Higher Education in the EU Strategic Agenda'. In November we were pleased to host Doris Pack, Chair of the Committee on Culture and Education, from the European Parliament.

In December we were honoured by a visit from Damir Grubiša, Ambassador of Croatia to Italy to the European University Institute.

Beyond these prestigious visits and events and the usual rich calendar of workshops, conferences, lectures and the like, 2013 also gave place to a number of important community building initiatives, both on and off the EUI campus.

The city of Fiesole again most graciously welcomed our new researchers and fellows with a beautiful evening set in the Roman Amphitheatre in Fiesole. The city of Florence, with the participation of then-mayor Matteo Renzi, also extended a warm welcome to me upon my arrival at the EUI, permitting my introduction to the city with a reception at Palazzo Vecchio.

At the EUI itself, we carried on with our traditional rituals of the annual Conferring Ceremony and June Ball.

Finally, to introduce myself to and get acquainted with the EUI community, I held a series of meetings with all 'citizens' of the EUI: faculty, stake-holders, governance, researchers and fellows, and staff. These meetings were not only an occasion to share my vision of where the EUI is and where I think it might be headed, but also to invite those closest to the institute to reflect on and express their own feelings, insights and hopes for the future.

THE GRADUATE PROGRAMME

The EUI's four-year structured graduate programme is co-ordinated by the Dean of Graduate Studies, Professor Rainer Bauböck, who has held this position since October 2012. The Dean liaises with the four academic departments, in particular with the Director of Graduate Studies of each department, for all that concerns teaching and supervision in the doctoral programme. As Dean, he is Chair of the Doctoral Programme Committee which meets regularly during the academic year to discuss aspects of the programme. At the Principal's request, he may substitute the Principal in matters related to the academic functioning of the Institute. The Dean promotes an academic environment where doctoral and post-doctoral studies complement one another, and where the researcher's overall experience and well-being may be enhanced. To this end, he works closely with the Academic Service to ensure that the tools for implementing the doctoral programme are kept in good order and respected, first and foremost the Academic Rules and Regulations, and then other related codes such as, for example, the policy on disability and specific educational needs that was adopted quite recently.

The doctoral programme concentrates not only on support for researchers producing a good thesis but also on other aspects that will be to their advantage upon leaving the EUI such as developing teaching skills, writing academic publications, presenting papers at conferences and support for their careers.

Another way in which researchers may enrich their studies is by taking advantage of co-operation agreements that the EUI has with universities worldwide. Many of these, notably those with U.S. and European universities (the latter under the Erasmus programme) are long-standing arrangements going back to the 1990s, but in the last few years agreements have been set up with universities in Russia and China.

The EUI's international reputation of academic excellence attracts young scholars not only from Europe but also from further afield. Recent developments, in terms of funding for postgraduate studies at the EUI, include a grant programme for Russian researchers financed by the Russian Federation, while the Institute itself is able to finance a limited number of students from around the world through the EUI named-scholarship programme. Besides these, the Italian Foreign Ministry also continues to award grants to students from Eastern Europe, Turkey and the CIS.

In 2013, 1380 candidates applied to the Institute and in September, 122 new researchers registered for the doctoral and Master's programmes. This represents an acceptance rate of about 9% compared to 8% for the previous year and to the average of 10% registered for the last decade.

Once enrolled at the EUI, these researchers benefit from a unique intellectual environment made up of over 1,000 international scholars - there are approximately 600 doctoral and Master's students, 55 faculty members, over 100 post-doctoral fellows, besides visiting and exchange students from partner universities, visiting fellows, part-time and visiting professors. More than 60 countries are represented.

107 researchers successfully defended their doctoral thesis in 2013 (36 in the Department of Law, 33 in the Department of Political and Social Sciences, 22 in the Department of History and Civilization, and 16 in the Department of Economics) compared with 109 and 105 for the previous two years.

An analysis of the completion figures carried out in 2013 shows that there has been a significant increase in researchers' success rates over the last decade, the average completion rate (PhDs awarded / annual doctoral intake) for cohorts 2001 to 2008 reaching almost 84%, compared with an average of just over 60% for the cohorts of the 1990s. In terms of time to completion, the median time-to-degree for cohorts 2001-2008 is 4.1 years for submission of the thesis and 4.7 years for defence.

Ultimately, the success of the Institute's doctoral programme is reflected not only by the number of doctorates being completed but also by researchers' work placement at the end of the programme. Recent figures show that 65% went on to pursue an academic career while 35% took up employment in international organisations or national agencies, and in the private sector.

To conclude, in autumn 2013 a process of reflection on reform of the doctoral programme has started, initiated by the Principal, that will lead to stronger skills development and the promotion of academic literacy and intellectual community.

PROFILE AND DEPARTMENTAL NEWS

The research activities of the Department reflect the interests of the current faculty members and are concentrated in the three broad areas of microeconomics, macroeconomics and econometrics. Within Macroeconomics, the main research themes include: recursive contracts; incomplete markets; computational methods; monetary theory and policy; macroeconomic implications of labor market institutions; models of expectation formation, political economy; international macroeconomics; fiscal policy; optimal taxation and sovereign default. Within Econometrics, the main research themes include: labor economics; health economics, economics of education, time series macroeconomic models; financial econometrics; the transmission mechanism of monetary policy in the Euro area; international business cycles; other more methodological issues related to the econometrics of high frequency data and financial volatility, methods for large datasets; forecasting; aggregation; time series models for mixed frequency data and instrumental variable estimation. Finally, in Microeconomics, the main research themes are: financial intermediation; financial crises and regulation; financial networks and contagion; economics of science and Innovation; general equilibrium theory; financial economics; economics of information; financial frictions and risk-sharing; firms' capital structure, social networks, political institutions, electoral rules and political selection; the study of intellectual property and endogenous growth in dynamic general equilibrium models, models of self-control, of the endogenous formation of preferences, institutions and social norms, learning in games, evolutionary game theory, virtual economies, and the application of game theory to experimental economics the experimental analysis of team decision making, the economics of credence goods, and the development of economic decision-making with age, in particular how gender differences in competitive attitudes and with respect to social preferences evolve with age.

With regard to faculty, in 2013 Professors Elena Carletti, Massimiliano Marcellino and Fernando Vega-Redondo all took up positions at the Università Bocconi in Milan; Professor Carletti and Professor Marcellino retained part-time contracts with the RSCAS through part of 2014. In September the department welcomed Professors Andrea Ichino (Università di Bologna); David Levine (Washington University in St. Louis) and Matthias Sutter (University of Innsbruck) to the faculty.

Economics faculty members were also awarded a €75,000 research grant by the EUI Research Council for the research project entitled Designing Economic Policies and Institutions after the Great Recession. The coordinators of this project are Árpád Ábrahám, Andrea Mattozzi and Evi Pappa, and other faculty involved are Jérôme Adda, Fabio Canova, Elena Carletti, Piero Gottardi, Peter Hansen, and Ramon Marimon.

NEW FACULTY

Andrea Ichino joined the Institute as a full-time professor in September 2013. With a PhD from MIT, he has previously held positions at Bocconi University, the EUI and the University of Bologna, from whence he arrives.

His current research areas include labor economics, economics of education, economics of the family, law and economics, gender studies, personnel economics and causality in econometrics.

Professor Ichino has published extensively in journals such as the American Economic Review, the Quarterly Journal of Economics, the Journal of the European Economic Association, the Review of Economic and Statistics, the Journal of Labor Economics, and the American Economic Journals. With his op eds in the Corriere della Sera and books such as L'Italia fatta in casa (with Alberto Alesina), Facolta' di scelta (with Daniele Terlizzese) and Liberiamo la Scuola (with Guido Tabellini), he is an active contributor to public debate on issues such as public education, gender issues and labor market policies.

He is currently working on several projects which include studies of the efficiency of individual worker time use, with an application to Italian judges; the effect of early day care on the cognitive and non-cognitive skills of children, with data from the city of Bologna; the relationship between heterogeneity of buyers and market power of sellers, with an application to Italian pharmacies; the screening capacity of university admission tests, with an application to medical schools; and the effect of gender differences in taxation on the allocation of family chores.

David K. Levine joined the Institute in September 2013, and holds a Joint Chair in Economics and at the RSCAS. With a PhD in economics from MIT, he has previously held positions at UCLA and the University of Minnesota. He is on leave as John H. Biggs Distinguished Professor of Economics at Washington University in St. Louis.

Professor Levine has published extensively in journals such as The American Economic Review, Econometrica, The Review of Economic Studies, The Journal of Political Economy, The Journal of Economic Theory, The Quarterly Journal of Economics, and The American Political Science Review. He is the editor of several conference volumes and the author of Is Behavioral Economics Doomed?, with Michele Boldrin of Against Intellectual Monopoly, and with Drew Fudenberg of Learning in Games. Over his career he has been a visiting scholar at numerous universities and institutes around the world.

His current research areas include learning in games, altruism and social preferences, and much of his work focuses on political economy, including models of pressure groups, collusion and peer enforcement, as well as a broader focus on evolutionary game theoretic models driven by conflict.

Matthias Sutter became Professor of Applied Economics at the EUI in September 2013. He is on extended leave from the University of Innsbruck /Austria, and is affiliated with the University of Cologne / Germany, as part of their international faculty. He has also held positions at the University of Gothenberg and the Max Planck Institute of Economics, Jena.

Professor Sutter's research focuses on experimental economics, working both in the laboratory and the field, investigating team decision making, credence goods markets and the development of economic decision making during childhood and adolescence.

Professor Sutter's work has been published in American Economic Review and the Review of Economic Studies recently, and he published his volume Die Entdeckung der Geduld - Ausdauer schlägt Talent (Ecowin-Publishers) in early 2014. He is currently working on the morality of markets, the influence of social preferences on credence goods markets and how kindergarten children learn to play strategic games.

PRIZES AND AWARDS

Professor Evi Pappa and MWF Eugenia Vella were awarded the John S. Latsis Public Benefit Foundation grant for their project 'Fiscal consolidation policies and the underground economy: the case of Greece'.

Tommaso Oliviero, 5th year researcher, was awarded the UniCredit and Universities Foundation's Fourth annual Ugo Foscolo Europe Research Fellowship. He will carry out the fellowship as a post-doc fellow at the Centre for Studies in Economics and Finance (CSEF) of the University Federico II di Napoli.

Fifth year ECO researcher Ilse Lindenlaub and ECO alumna Anja Prummer received the UniCredit and Universities Foundation's Scientific Committee UWIN Best Paper Award for their co-authored paper 'More vs Closer Friends: How Gender Shapes Social Networks and their Effects on Performance'.

Giovanni Andreottola, 2nd year researcher, won the departmental prize for best first year summer paper for his paper 'Signalling Valence in Primary Elections'.

Ylenia Brilli, ECO Max Weber Fellow won the 2013 edition of the Prize in memory of Etta Chiuri awarded by the Società italiana di economia pubblica for her paper 'Mother or market care? A structural estimation of child care impacts on child development'.

Professor Peter Reinhard Hansen was elected Fellow of the Society for Financial Econometrics (SoFiE) in recognition of his outstanding contributions to financial econometrics.

Professor Matthias Sutter was ranked second in terms of research productivity among the 2500 academics examined by Das Handelsblatt, the German business daily.

HISTORY AND CIVILIZATION

PROFILE AND DEPARTMENT NEWS

The Department of History and Civilization (HEC) stands out among research centres across Europe for its commitment to examine the history of Europe from international, comparative, transnational and trans-cultural perspectives. It aims at a rigorous reflection on how to research, write and teach a cross-national history of Europe. It is committed to transcend national perspectives on history by incorporating them into distinctly European outlooks with broader methodological and thematic contexts, and to critically relate historical research to the concerns of contemporary Europeans. Its research agenda emphasizes long-term perspectives on the multiple processes of integration and disintegration that Europe has undergone in the political, economic, cultural, social, legal and scientific spheres. HEC is not the only research centre with a commitment to explore the history of Europe from global, comparative, transnational and trans-cultural perspectives. Given its Europe-wide recruitment, though, it is the one best equipped to do so.

The Department encourages interdisciplinary cooperation with the social sciences, and has increasingly pivoted its research agenda around four main areas: the long-term development of economic, political and social structures that defined Europe through the early modern and modern period; the connections and entanglements with the imperial, colonial and global processes that shaped Europe and its internal diversity; the complex structure of intellectual and scientific transformations that made and remade Europe as a diversified cultural space; the interaction between power, ideology and society with a focus on how socio-political arrangements, modes of dominations and regimes of power rise and decline.

In 2013 we inaugurated the M. Bakhtin chair in Russia-Europe relations which will rebalance a traditional focus on the Western part of Europe and expand our ability to locate European history in a global framework. It was taken up by Professor Alexander Etkind. The department also recruited top scholars for the chairs in the History of Science, in the Early Modern History of Europe, and in 19th and 20th Century History. These chairs were taken up, respectively, by Professors Stéphane Van Damme; Regina Grafe; and Pieter Judson.

On top of high quality PhD candidates, we receive an increasing number of applications for the post-doctoral and senior fellowships by top-ranking scholars. We are expanding and deepening the networks that link us to the world's most advanced research outfits. Our Summer School on Comparative and Trans-National History has grown into a reference point for history students across Europe. The Europe in the World Forum - which fosters discussion and research on the inter-linking of Europe with other areas in the world and runs a rich series of conferences and lectures - is now well established. It runs collaborative ventures with the Global Governance Programme, the Warwick Global History and Culture Centre, and the history departments at Princeton, the Central European University and Sciences Po (Paris).

This year the Department inaugurated exchange agreements with the London School of Economics, the European University at St. Petersburg, Columbia University, and Birkbeck College.

Finally, the Department is host to the new ERC project Bodies across Borders (BABE) coordinated by Professor Luisa Passerini, now here as a part-time professor.

NEW FACULTY

Alexander M. Etkind joined the HEC faculty on a part-time basis in 2013, and will become full-time in April 2014. Professor Etkind obtained his PhD from the V.M. Bekhterev Research Institute in Leningrad. He has held positions at the Academy of Sciences in St. Petersburg, the European University at St. Petersburg, and, most recently, Cambridge University.

His research areas include European intellectual history; memory studies; Natural Resources and the history of political economy; Empires and colonies in Europe; and 21st century Russian politics, novel and film.

In 2013 Professor Etkind published his volume Warped Mourning: Stories of the Undead in the Land of the Unburied (Palo Alto, Stanford U Press), as well as a co-edited work entitled Memory and Theory in Eastern Europe (New York: Palgrave Macmillan).

Regina Grafe, Chair in Early Modern History of Europe, took up her position at the EUI in September 2013. With a PhD in Economic History from the London School of Economics (LSE), Professor Grafe has previously held positions at the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid, the LSE, Nuffield College, Oxford, and, most recently, Northwestern University.

Her areas of research include the early modern history of the Hispanic World; global economic and social history; the history of state and empire-building; colonial governance and the comparative history of private and public commercial institutions and legal norms.

Professor Grafe is currently working on a co-authored book entitled A Stakeholder Empire: The political economy of Spanish rule in the eighteenth century Americas, as well as a project on Institutional Diversity and European Expansion, 1450-1850. Her most recent book is Distant Tyranny. Markets, Power and Backwardness in Spain, 1650-1800 (Princeton: Princeton University Press).

Ann Thomson, Professor of European Intellectual History, took up her position at the EUI in January 2013. With a DPhil from Oxford University, Professor Thomson has previously held positions at the University of Algiers, the Université de Caen, and the Université Paris 8 Vincennes – Saint Denis, where for several years she directed the postgraduate programmes 'Histoire et civilisations'.

Her fields of research include European intellectual history in the long Eighteenth Century, especially France and Britain; Cultural Transfers and Intellectual networks; Europe and the Islamic world; and Identity and alterity.

Professor Thomson is currently working on projects concerning the Natural History of Man in the Eighteenth Century, a biographical dictionary of eighteenth-century translators, and the correspondence and networks of Pierre Des Maizeaux. Her most recent book is L'âme des lumières : le débat sur l'être humain entre religion et science Angleterre-France (1690-1760) (Seyssel : Champ Vallon, 2013).

Stephane M. Van Damme, Professor of the History of Science, joined the faculty in September 2013. With a PhD in History from University of Paris I (Pantheon-Sorbonne), Professor van Damme has held positions at the CNRS-EHESS (Paris), the University of Warwick, and, most recently Sciences-Po.

His fields of research include early Modern Europe, with an emphasis on cities; comparative history of science (special interests in Philosophy, Natural History, Archaeology); History and social theory (sociology and anthropology); Cultural history of Enlightenment; Colonial History of Science (special interest in Colonial New York); and Environmental History

His current research examines the origins of early modern scientific knowledge and European Culture between 1650 and 1850 by looking at essential elements overlooked by historians of science such as scientific centres (Paris, London, Edinburgh), founding fathers (Descartes), paradigmatic disciplines (philosophy, natural history, antiquarianism) and imperial projects. His most recent book A toutes voiles vers la vérité. Philosophes au travail (1650-1800) (Paris, Le Seuil) was published in early 2014.

PRIZES AND AWARDS

Professor Regina Grafe was awarded the Gyorgy Ranki Biennial Prize for the best book in European Economic History for her book Distant Tyranny: Trade, Power and Backwardness in Spain, 1650-1800, Princeton University Press 2012

Professor Lucy Riall received the 'Premio Sila '49 Speciale Saggio in traduzione sul Mezzogiorno' for her book La rivolta. Bronte 1860, Laterza 2012.

Professor Alexander Etkind won an honorable mention for the Aldo and Jeanne Scaglione Prize for Studies in Slavic Languages and Literatures for his book Internal Colonization: Russia's Imperial Experience, Polity 2011.

PROFILE AND DEPARTMENT NEWS

The Department of Law is committed to the study of law in a comparative and contextual manner, with a special focus on European, transnational and international law. The Department is European and international in character, comparative in its approach and contextual in its methods; its mission is to combine the highest level academic legal research with a vibrant teaching environment for researchers. The Department's four-year doctoral programme and one year research LLM programme are enriched by the interaction of an international body of professors, visiting professors, post-doctoral scholars and researchers, coming from a diversity of legal traditions within and outside Europe, as well as by regular contact with practitioners in both its research and teaching programmes. The Department is committed to maintaining and developing its links with the legal profession, and to encouraging dialogue between the judiciary, practitioners and the academic legal world. Our graduates secure positions in academia, the European institutions, international organisations, and in private practice.

The legal issues arising from the development of European institutions, the European Union's constitutional order and the development of European law feature prominently in the department's research projects and in doctoral and LLM researchers' thesis topics. Europe is not only represented through a distinct body of law (EU law); legal issues in fields such as labour law, economic and consumer law, private law and administrative law reflect the mutual interdependence as well as the diversity of national legal systems and the emergence of transnational structures of governance. International law is also a strong element in the Department's programme with a long-standing experience in human-rights protection, the study of competition law and international trade. A dominant research theme is thus the interaction between national legal systems, European law and international law. The department's research focuses on global governance and the impact of globalisation on legal systems; the role of the EU in international and transnational governance, including environment, social policy, international trade and investment; transnational private regulation; European regulatory private law; the protection of fundamental rights and the development of constitutional values in the law of the EU; the impact of new modes of governance on EU law; the impact of new technologies, biotechnology and neuroscience; comparative constitutional law; transitional justice; and developments in international criminal law, human rights and counter-terrorism.

With regard to faculty, Professor Stefan Grundmann arrived in September 2013, taking up the Chair in Transnational Private Law. Marise Cremona returned in September as Professor of European Law, following her leave acting as EUI President ad interim. Professor Fabrizio Cafaggi, formerly the Chair in Transnational Private Law, is now part-time professor and Director of the Centre for Judicial Cooperation.

Members of the Law Department launched two major research projects in 2013: Euro Crisis Law and National Constitutions, and ALIAS II.

The first project, funded by the EUI's Research Council, is directed by Professors Azoulai, Cremona, De Witte, Kilpatrick, Monti, and Micklitz, and will run until 2015. It is a study of the impact of Euro Crisis Law (by which we mean the legal instruments adopted at European or international level in reaction to the Eurozone crisis) on the national legal and constitutional structures of the 28 Member States of the European Union. The study, the first comprehensive project of its kind, aims to provide an open-access research tool, based on a set of reports for each Member State, that constitutes an excellent basis for further, especially comparative, studies of the legal status and implementation of Euro Crisis Law at national level, the interactions between national legal systems and Euro Crisis law and the constitutional challenges that have been faced. It further aims to investigate the impact of Euro Crisis Law on the constitutional balance of powers at national level; highlight the effects of Euro Crisis Law on the protection of fundamental and social rights at national level; and provide an overview of Euro Crisis Law literature and a collection of relevant official documents in the Member States.

More than a dozen reports from the project are presently available, the remainder will be added this year. The reports are based on a detailed questionnaire and on a wider range of sources, including minutes of parliamentary debates, national laws ratifying and implementing Euro Crisis Law, case law of national constitutional or supreme courts.

European Project ALIAS II - (Addressing Liability Impact of Automated Systems), coordinated by the EUI and funded by Eurocontrol (EU organisation for the safety of ATM), is the second major project launched in 2013.

The project, which is directed by Professor Giovanni Sartor, addresses liability and automation in ATM, and more generally in complex socio-technical systems. It analyses present and future technological developments and their impacts on ATM, assesses current responsibility regimes, and proposes future developments.

The expected outputs include the following: (a) a methodological tool, “The Legal Case”, that will support the introduction of automation in ATM; and (b) a “Network of Legal Research in ATM”, a multidisciplinary community fostering discussion and collaboration across disciplinary lines.

NEW FACULTY

Stefan M. Grundmann became Professor of Transnational Law in the Law department in September 2013. He is on leave from Humboldt University where he is a Professor of Private and Business Law. He has held chairs of German and International Business Law at the universities of Halle-Wittenberg (1995-2001) and Erlangen-Nürnberg (2001-2004) before he went to Humboldt-University in 2004.

Dr Gundmann’s fields of research include European contract, banking and company law; comparative contract and company law; private law and social theory and transnational law and governance.

At present Professor Grundmann is working on a treatise on Contemporary Private Law Theory (legal and social theory) and on changes in the private and capital law structure triggered by the European Banking Union.

PRIZES AND AWARDS

François-Xavier Millet (LAW 2012) won two prizes for his thesis L’Union Européenne et l’Identité Constitutionnelle des Etats-Membres. At the EUI conferring ceremony he was awarded the 2013 Mauro Cappelletti Prize. His dissertation also was recognized by the Consitutional Council of France for its excellence, and, under their patronage, will be published in the collection Bibliothèque constitutionnelle et de science politique.

Jotte Mulder, LAW researcher, was awarded the Prize for Best Visual Communication of the inaugural Early Research Poster competition at Edinburgh Law School for his poster ‘EU economic law in the process of embedding of markets. How to (re)define the social purposes of the EU?’ Mulder was invited to Edinburgh to discuss his research individually with the judges, and to present his poster at Playfair Library of Old College.

The management of the Academy underwent some changes during 2013. We welcomed Marise Cremona back as Academy Director following her leave of absence for the term of her appointment as President ad interim of the EUI and we thanked Francesco Francioni for his several years of dedicated service to the Academy as Director. Thus the Academy Directors at present are Loïc Azoulai, Nehal Bhuta and Marise Cremona. In addition, the Academy recruited a second full-time staff member, Joyce Davies.

In accordance with the EUI's mission to advance learning in fields of particular interest for the development of Europe, the Academy focuses on teaching and scholarship in the fields of human rights law, European Union law, and international law. A central focus of the Academy's activities is the month-long summer school programme, with courses in Human Rights Law and the Law of the European Law. The Academy also runs a substantial publications programme, which includes the prestigious European Journal of International Law and the Collected Courses series. The Academy also hosts the secretariat of the European Society of International Law. Finally, the Academy operates and collaborates in a number of research projects.

First launched in 1990, the Academy summer courses are widely recognized and respected as the leading summer programme in their fields. As such, they enhance the visibility and the reputation of the EUI on many different levels: speakers, selected from both academia and practice, are leading authorities in their fields (see below for a list of lectures) and applications for the courses are received from all over Europe and beyond. Selected participants often use the time at the EUI to obtain information about research and study at the EUI, and some return as course participants or researchers.

The Collected Courses of the Academy of European Law, produced after each summer course, are published by Oxford University Press. One volume of the Collected Courses series was published in 2013: Ana Filipa Vrdoljak (ed.), The Cultural Dimension of Human Rights.

The European Journal of International Law (also published by Oxford University Press) has, since its inception, had its Editorial Office at the Academy. Widely regarded as the leading journal in the field of international law, the journal is inextricably linked with the Academy, and with the EUI. This year we welcomed the Journal's Editor-in-Chief, Professor Joseph Weiler, back to the EUI as President. Anny Bremner, Coordinator of the Academy, continues in her role as Managing Editor. Four issues are published each year.

The European Society of International Law (ESIL), with its Secretariat based at the Academy, continues to grow both in size and reputation. In only a few short years it has become a must-join association for international lawyers, thereby bringing the EUI to the attention of a large number of international law academics, practitioners and students. The Secretariat also assists in the organisation of the society's annual events, which further enhances the EUI's reputation both in academic circles and among international lawyers worldwide. Academy Director, Nehal Bhuta, is a member of the Executive Board of the society. In 2013, ESIL held its 5th Research Forum in Amsterdam, entitled "International Law as a Profession".

The Academy is a project partner in an FP7 Project, Transatlantic Relations and the Future of Global Governance (Transworld), launched in April 2012. The Academy team, led by Francesco Francioni with the support of Christine Bakker, is leading the project's research on transatlantic relations in the field of environmental governance and climate change. The results of this research, carried out by experts from the EUI, Chatham House, Charles University Prague, German Marshall Fund, MIT and the Universities of Siena and Edinburgh, have been published in 10 Transworld Working Papers, available on the project website (www.Transworld-Fp7.eu), and four AEL Working Papers. The Academy has also contributed to the project's research in the field of human rights. The main research outcomes will be presented in a volume, The EU, the US and Global Climate Governance, edited by C. Bakker and F. Francioni, to be published by Ashgate Publishing in August 2014.

In March 2013 the Academy hosted a Workshop as part of the EEAS 2.0 project, in which it participates. This research project, which was designed to reflect on the first three years of the European External Action Service (EEAS) and to contribute to the review process, is led by the EUI (Academy of European Law), the Swedish Institute for European Policy Studies (SIEPS), and the Centre for European Policy Studies (CEPS), and carried out in cooperation with the Amsterdam

Centre for European Law and Governance (ACELG), the Centre for the Law of EU External Relations (CLEER), the European Institute of Public Administration (EIPA) and the Leuven Centre for Global Governance Studies. The project aims at (i) producing a legal commentary on the 2010 Council Decision setting up the EEAS; (ii) reviewing the organisation and functioning of the EEAS, and (iii) formulating recommendations on both the interpretative room to accommodate changes to the organisation and functioning of the EEAS à droit constant and the possible amendment of the EEAS Council Decision where this interpretative room is lacking. The Workshop held at the EUI in March discussed the main conclusions of the legal commentary, collected views from key stakeholders about problems faced in the implementation of the EEAS Council Decision and, more broadly, the practical difficulties in the organisation and functioning of the EEAS, and exchanged ideas on how these difficulties might be overcome. The outcome of the Workshop, after further discussion with the Workshop participants and other stakeholders in the light of the EEAS Review, is a policy briefing which offered specific recommendations for the amendment of the Council Decision 2010/427/EU on the EEAS, ahead of the General Affairs Council held in December 2013 and the ongoing discussions on the revision of the Service to take place in 2014-2015.

Finally, the Academy provided financial contributions to some workshops and conferences on topics related to the Academy's scope of interests. In 2013, it included a two-day conference on EU criminal law from a socio-legal perspective and a workshop organized by the Law Department's Relex Working Group on institutional actors in EU external relations.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

PROFILE AND DEPARTMENT NEWS

The Department of Political and Social Sciences (SPS) is one of the leading centres for the comparative study of European societies, politics and political economies as well as of European integration and international relations. With fifteen full-time faculty, of which six currently have received an ERC advanced grant, and running several major comparative projects, the SPS department is also among the most successful ones in Europe in mobilizing resources for research in the social sciences. In the broad-ranging research programme of the Department there is a common emphasis on political and social change within Europe at all levels, the national, the sub-national and the transnational. The Department currently hosts two research centres, the Center on Social Movement Studies (COSMOS) and the Center for Comparative Life Course Research (CLIC). The Department is also strongly connected to the activities of the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies, and has helped to establish and run the Europe-wide research projects and platforms like NEWGOV, EUDO and PIREDEU. Our faculty and staff contribute to the EUI's mission through our dedication to provide doctoral teaching and supervision to our researchers at the highest international level. Furthermore, we are committed to advance high quality fundamental research on Europe that is relevant to the scientific community and beyond, including policy makers, the media, civil society and the wider public. Two thirds of our graduates secure academic positions in leading universities around the world. Numerous alumni also hold positions in international organisations in general, and in the European institutions more in particular.

Our faculty's research interests range across the following themes:

The Transformation of Government and Democracy

This includes new modes of governance and institutional change at State and European levels' European integration, transitions in government and markets and democratization in Western and East-Central Europe, urban and regional government, federalism, and the comparative study of political institutions, including executives and legislatures.

Social Change in Europe and its Implications for Society, Politics & Public Policy

Critical challenges include demographic change and societal aging, linked to the transformation of the family and life courses, social stratification, inequality and unemployment, and migration, its causes, patterns and implications, which have become a key issue for Europe's future and impact on a number of other policy fields.

The Comparative Study of Public Policy

This is examined at the European, national and sub-national and regional levels and covers social policy and welfare states, education policy, urban and regional policies, immigration policy, and defence and security.

Political and Social Structures and Behaviour

The Department has a particular interest in research on political conflict in Europe, voting and elections, parties and party systems. Its interest also focuses on social movements and the study of new modes of social and political participation, as well as on electronic democracy and the use of the internet as a form of political communication.

International Relations and Security

It includes theoretical issues in the study of international order, ethics of international relations, internal and external security, and the emergence of Europe as an international actor.

Social and Political Theory

This theme runs through many of the Department's research interests. There is an emphasis on applied theory. Of particular importance are theories of citizenship and political boundaries, theories of action and practical rationality, signaling theory and applications, democratic theory and practice, violence and nationalism. The Department also has an interest in theories of new institutionalism and institutional change.

NEW FACULTY

Stefano Bartolini took up the Peter Mair chair in comparative politics in September 2013, after having directed the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies from 2006 to 2013. Prior to his directorship he held positions at the University of Bologna, the EUI, the University of Florence, the University of Trieste and the University of Geneva.

He is or has been a member of the editorial board of the Rivista Italiana di Scienza Politica, and a member of the scientific board of West European Politics, Swiss Review of Political Science, Acta Politica, Electoral Studies, Journal of Theoretical Politics, and Comparative Political Studies.

Professor Bartolini's present academic interests are the relationships between the process of European integration and the key features of the European nation-state experience.

PRIZES AND AWARDS

ROBERT SCHUMAN CENTRE FOR ADVANCED STUDIES

PROFILE AND NEWS

The Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies was created in 1992 to promote inter-disciplinary research on the major issues facing Europe and the process of integration. Its mission is to conduct high quality research on the dynamics of European integration broadly defined and Europe's global role. The Schuman Centre conducts theoretical, normative, analytical and applied policy research in a number of domains and draws on the disciplines present at the EUI, namely economics, history, law, political and social sciences to foster a rich, diverse and creative intellectual community. The research agenda of the Centre revolves around a number of core themes that are continuously evolving, reflecting the changing agenda of European integration and wider global dynamics. In 2013 the core themes were European Institutions, Governance, and Democracy; Migration; Economic and Monetary Policy; Competition Policy and Market Regulation; Energy Policy; and Climate Policy; Global Governance; International and Transnational Relations of the EU. The Centre is directed by Brigid Laffan, who succeeded Stefano Bartolini as RSCAS Director in September 2013.

Following a review of the Robert Schuman Centre's research profile and activities, the new Director decided to focus research, policy dialogue and executive training on three big themes. At a time of crisis and major transition, big themes predominate. The three themes are:

- Integration, Governance and Democracy;
- Regulating Markets and Governing Money;
- 21st Century World Politics and Europe.

These three themes, that are central to Europe's future, will guide the work of the Schuman Centre for the years ahead. The Schuman Centre seeks to act as a bridge that fosters links between basic and applied policy research; between the EUI and public institutions at European, global and member state levels; between doctoral, post-doctoral research and lifelong learning. The Centre disseminates and reports the results of its basic and policy related research to a wide audience through the organisation of conferences, workshops and other events; academic publications as well as research reports, working papers and policy papers; the Centre's corporate web site as well as numerous project web sites. Through these web sites, the Centre and its projects also offer many research tools as 'public goods'.

The Centre's academic faculty includes joint chair holders who are also professors in the teaching departments of the EUI (Law, Economics, History and Civilization, and Political and Social Sciences); programme directors who are Schuman Professors; part-time professors; research fellows and academic assistants working in the Centre's projects and programmes; senior fellows; and visiting scholars. In addition to its own faculty, the Centre hosts a large post-doctoral fellowship programme including Jean Monnet and Marie Curie fellows, EU fellows, other publicly and privately funded fellows, and academic and non-academic visitors. It hosts yearly over 30 scholars as Fellows-in-Residence, both early career scholars and established scholars.

The Robert Schuman Centre houses four large programmes notably the Florence School of Regulation, the Migration Policy Centre, the Global Governance Programme and the European Union Democracy Observatory. Other important current research nodes include the Pierre Werner Chair Programme on European monetary union, the Centre for Media Pluralism and Media Freedom and the Climate Policy Research Unit. The Centre also hosts two projects funded by the European Research Council.

NEWLY APPOINTED ACADEMIC STAFF

Brigid Laffan became Director and Professor at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies in September 2013, where she also directs the Global Governance Programme.

She was the founding director of the Dublin European Institute UCD from 1999 and in March 2004 she was elected as a member of the Royal Irish Academy. She is a member of the Board of the Mary Robinson Foundation for Climate Justice, the Fulbright Commission (until September 2013) and was the 2013 Visiting Scientist for the EXACT Marie Curie Network.

In December 2012, Professor Laffan was awarded the THESEUS Award for outstanding research on European Integration. In 2010 she was awarded the Ordre nationale du Mérite by the President of the French Republic

Professor Laffan's has published widely in the area of European integration and her research interests fall in the areas of the dynamic of European integration, EU Governance and Europeanization and Public Finances.

Bernard Hoekman arrived at the RSCAS in February 2011. He is GGP Programme Director, and directs the research strand Global Economics for the RSCAS' Global Governance Programme. He has held various senior positions at the World Bank, including Director of the International Trade Department and Research Manager in the Development Research Group. He has also worked as an economist in the GATT Secretariat and held visiting appointments at SciencesPo. He has published widely on trade policy and economic development, the global trading system, and trade in services. He is a graduate of the Erasmus University Rotterdam, holds a Ph.D. in economics from the University of Michigan and is a Research Fellow of the Centre for Economic Policy Research.

PRIZES AND AWARDS

Andrea Calderaro (RSCAS), Ben Wagner (SPS) and Kirsten Gollatz (Humboldt University) won the Best Paper Prize awarded by the Network of Excellence in Internet Sciences at the 1st Internet Science Conference (Brussels 9-11 April 2013) for their paper "Common Narrative - Divergent Agendas: The Internet & Human Rights in Foreign Policy"

Fabio Canova (RSCAS-ECO) was elected Director of the International Association of Applied Econometrics as well as Program Committee Chair of the European meetings of The Econometric Society. He was also awarded a EC grant for research on "The economic effects of deleveraging in the financial and non-financial sectors", and was elected a member of ANVUR, Agenzia Nazionale di Valutazione del Sistema Universitario di Ricerca.

Diego Garzia (RSCAS) was awarded both the 14th "Celso Ghini" Award for the Best PhD thesis in electoral studies defended in the biennium 2011-2012 by the Società Italiana di Studi Elettorali and the 1st "Giacomo Sani" Award for the best article in political communication and electoral behaviour by the journals "Rivista Italiana di Scienza Politica" and "Comunicazione Politica" in collaboration with ITANES: Italian National Election Study. He was also elected as a Steering Committee member of the Italian Society of Political Science (SISP).

Adrienne Héritier (RSCAS-SPS) was awarded an honorary doctorate by Université Catholique de Louvain la Neuve.

Neil Howard (RSCAS) received the Oxford University Vice-Chancellor's Civic Award in 2013. The Award scheme aims to celebrate civic engagement alongside academic achievement. Neil won it for his work on a number of political education projects over recent years in Oxford.

Brigid Laffan was awarded an honorary doctorate by the National University of Ireland.

Paolo Ponzano (RSCAS) was bestowed the title of Chevalier in the French National Order of the Legion of Honour, the highest decoration in France, for his 38 years of service working towards European integration as an official at the European Commission in Brussels.

RSCAS RESEARCH PROJECTS

New projects launched in 2013

CONTENTION (CONtrol of DeTENTION), co-funded by the European Union in the framework of the European Return Fund, is implemented by the Migration Policy Centre in partnership with the Odysseus Network (Université Libre de Bruxelles). The main objective of the project is to inform, analyse and compare between 11 EU Member States (AT, BG, BE, CZ, DE, FR, IT, NL, SK, SI and UK) judicial control on pre-removal detention of third-country nationals in the EU in order to improve it, in particular regarding the control of the length of detention. The identification and exchange of best practices among legal experts and practitioners in the field of return policy is one of the core objectives of the project. More generally, CONTENTION intends to create the first basis for European networking between national judges hearing return cases and prepare the ground for further judicial cooperation and training of national judges in this field.

Media Pluralism Monitor: The European Commission awarded a grant to the Centre for Media Pluralism and Media Freedom CMPF to conduct a pilot test implementation of the Media Pluralism Monitor. The Monitor was developed in 2009 and defined a wide set of indicators and a monitoring tool to “measure” the threats to pluralism in the Member States. The CMPF will streamline the indicators used in the MPM, and undertake a pilot-implementation of the tool in nine EU countries: Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Estonia, France, Greece, Hungary, Italy and UK.

Involuntary Loss of European Citizenship (ILEC) is a two-year research project, funded by the European Union, that aims to fill the knowledge gap surrounding the rules and administrative procedures applicable to loss of nationality across the European Union, and their relation to existing European and international legal standards. By making an in-depth comparative inventory of the regulations, administrative practices and statistical data covering involuntary loss of nationality across the 28 EU member states, the project will generate new knowledge on the effects on national legal systems of the increasing judicialisation of grounds of loss of Union citizenship.

DIRECTIONS is a research initiative which aims at identifying and analysing directions of change in North Africa. The research focus is specifically on social dynamics, since an informed understanding of the overall scope and direction of the transformational process underway in post-revolutionary Egypt, Libya and Tunisia can develop only by looking at the deeper changes occurring within these societies. The project is financed by the Norwegian Peace-Building Resource Centre and will initially run for one year.

ITHACA (Integration, Transnational Mobility and Human, Social and Economic Capital Transfers) studies the links between migrants’ social and economic integration and their transnational engagement. ITHACA explores the ways in which integration conditions in countries of destination and conditions in countries of origin encourage migrants’ transnational mobility. It also examines the type of transfers that take place through this transnational mobility. The ITHACA team will examine Moroccan, Bosnian, Ukrainian, Indian and Filipino populations in Italy, Spain, Austria and the UK.

MAX WEBER PROGRAMME FOR POSTDOCTORAL STUDIES

PROFILE AND DESCRIPTION

The Max Weber Programme, housed in Villa La Fonte until summer 2013 and since then in the Badia Fiesolana, provides excellent research facilities, a range of activities to improve communication skills (writing, presentation and teaching), and actively supports fellows looking for an academic position. For interested fellows, it offers a range of teacher-training possibilities (within the EUI, Florence and abroad), and it organizes multidisciplinary research workshops and discussions on different aspects of academic careers. The fellows themselves organize many of these activities. All these elements make the Max Weber Fellowship a unique and productive multicultural and multidisciplinary personal and intellectual experience at the outset of a promising academic career.

First and foremost, the Max Weber Programme is a unique and pioneering experience in post-doctoral education in the Socio-economic Sciences and Humanities in Europe (SSH), in a period when, due to the expansion of PhD programmes and the limited absorbing capacity of European academic institutions, the post-doctoral phase of research and of an academic career is fast becoming a normal phase, as it has been for many years in the natural sciences. There is no other comparable post-doctoral programme with a similar selection, dimension and offer in the world. As such, it is a clear expression of the excellence and internationalization of the EUI as a whole.

Second, in contrast with the more established professors of the EUI, the Max Weber Fellows, post-docs within five years of having obtained a PhD, are a very valuable asset to the departments and, in particular, to the PhD researchers of the EUI, since they are working at the new frontiers of SSH research, and are highly motivated to pursue a successful research and academic career. Their active participation in research and teaching activities is proof of this.

Third, the Max Weber Programme helps the Max Weber Fellows to develop and broaden their research agendas, as well as making them better teachers and academics, aspects that can only be valued in their future international careers.

In the past eight years 318 fellows have taken part in the Max Weber Programme, two visiting professors and many visiting fellows. As the word has spread and the Max Weber Programme has become established and well-known the pool of applicants has also developed in interesting ways. As a result the Programme now receives an increasing number of applicants from all over the world, and not only from Europe; the United States, Turkey, the Russian Federation, Israel, India, Canada, China, Australia, Mexico and Argentina figure large in this year's application pool.

The graph below shows that the number of applicants has rapidly grown and more than doubled in the Programme's first five years of existence. It grew from 555 in 2005, to 446 in 2006, 784 in 2007, 928 in 2008, 1042 in 2009, 1139 in 2010, 1022 in 2011, 1120 in 2012 and 1277 in 2013.

In 2013, the biggest non-EU countries (in order) were USA, Turkey, Canada, India, China, Israel, Argentina, Russian Federation, Australia, Ukraine, Brazil and Nigeria (these are countries with over 10 applications up to 145 of USA).

In addition, the MWP's Academic Careers Observatory provides a framework for reflection on the situation, problems and perspectives of academic careers in the Social Sciences and Humanities in Europe and beyond. The Academic Careers Observatory explores and compares the structures of academe across countries, discusses crucial questions relating to the international mobility of scholars and monitors the development of research and funding opportunities for young scholars. The Observatory aims to offer a basic understanding of how the different academic systems are structured and provides a thorough description of the formal and informal barriers for career advancement. In addition, the Institute's experience in surveying graduates and post-graduates and the significant volume of data collected over the years enable the EUI to manage longitudinal studies of career development, prospects and outcomes in Europe.

NEW DIRECTOR

Richard Bellamy is currently a Visiting Professor at the EUI, and will take up the Directorship of the Max Weber Programme on 1 May 2014. He is on exceptional leave from his position as Professor of Political Science at University College, London (UCL).

Richard was educated at the University of Cambridge and the European University Institute in Florence. After three years as a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow at Nuffield College, Oxford he went on to lectureships at Cambridge and Edinburgh and then to Chairs at the Universities of East Anglia, Reading, Essex and UCL. At UCL he was the founding Head of the new Department of Political Science and Director of the School of Public Policy from 2005-2010 and of UCL's European Institute, which he established, from 2010-2013.

Richard has held Visiting Fellowships at Nuffield College, Oxford; the EUI in Florence; Australia National University (ANU), and the Centre for Advanced Study (CAS) in Oslo. He is currently a Fellow at the Hanse Wissenschaft-Kolleg in Delmenhorst. He was Academic Director of the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR) from 2002-2006 and was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts (FRSA) in 2002 and a member of the Academy of Social Sciences (AcSS) in 2008. Richard was the Founding Chair of the Britain and Ireland Association of Political Thought from 2008-2013 and is a member of the Politics and International Relations Panel, UK Research Evaluation Framework (REF) 2014.

HISTORICAL ARCHIVES OF THE EUROPEAN UNION

The Historical Archives of the European Union (HAEU) preserves and makes available to the public the official historical records of the European Union Institutions. The Archives processes annual transfers from the EU Institutions, prepares inventories, provides reading room services at its seat at Villa Salviati and maintains a modern online database for document search and retrieval. The Archives also collects private papers of individuals and non-EU organisations that have contributed to European integration and cooperation.

On 21 May 2013, the amended EU Regulation 354/83 concerning the HAEU was passed by the European Parliament. The amended Regulation aims at strengthening the role of the HAEU in partnership with the European Institutions by making a deposit mandatory for all Institutions with the exception of the European Court of Justice and the European Central Bank who may transfer their archives on a voluntary basis. Also, the amendment places the HAEU on a solid financial basis by confirming the role of the host country Italy and by introducing a contribution system for European Institutions according to their relative size. The new regulation takes into consideration data protection obligations while placing emphasis on public access to documents.

The first year at its new premises at Villa Salviati saw a period of consolidation regarding the provision of office space for staff, financial management for maintenance and running costs and the provision of optimal conditions for reading room users and the provision of 11,000 linear meters space for records storage.

In 2013, high priority was given to the migration and upgrading of the archival database and the implementation of a modern online search and retrieval tool. This activity was accompanied by a complete review of the HAEU website and a redesign of its homepage with regular news and updated information on events and publications related to the archival holdings. The HAEU also started to use social media via the communication channels of the EUI.

During the year, the HAEU received accruals of 104 linear meters with 20,064 paper files emanating from EU Institutions. The DORIE collection of the Commission at the HAEU was enriched by 21 linear meters with 277 files. Private deposits were received and inventories prepared for the archives of Robert Toulemon, Piero Malvestiti (digital copies), Francois Lamoureux, Paul-Henri Spaak (digital copies), Jean-Pierre Gouzy, Georg Proebstl and Prof. Lorella Cedroni. As regards non-EU organisations, deposits were received from the Alliance of Liberals and Democrats in the European Parliament, the Council of European Municipalities and Regions, the European League for Economic Cooperation, the European Movement, and the European Youth Forum.

The HAEU arranged, processed, described and released to the public a total of 17,525 files via the online database. To facilitate online access, 4,444 archival files were digitised. Six new interviews comprising 162 pages of transcriptions produced by the European Space Agency were included into the HAEU oral history collections. Preparative work was conducted to include the oral history collections into the new online database system.

In 2013, the website of the HAEU received 1,435,355 visits. Digitised files were downloaded in 121,377 sessions, and the news section of the website received 59,103 visits. The reading room at Villa Salviati saw 720 on-site researchers consulting 6,201 files.

The new seat at Villa Salviati attracted numerous visitors in 2013, most importantly the visit of Martin Schulz, President of the European Parliament, on 9 May 2013, and 700 Florentines during the Open Day on 10 May.

During the Festival of Europe, the HAEU prepared an exhibition at Palazzo Vecchio: “The vision of a United Europe: The Schuman Declaration of 9 May 1950”. Jointly with the Council of the EU, the Archives organised a workshop on “Transparency and Access to the Records and Archives of the EU Institutions” in January and arranged, throughout the year, for student visits of the Florence Archives School, the University and the Open University of Florence.

In September, the Archives hosted the prestigious 2013 edition of the European Parliament’s European Citizen’s Prize ceremony for Italy. In December it hosted the workshop of the EUI’s History Department on “Integration and Cold War”. To mark the publication and digitization of Piero Malvestiti’s private papers, the Archives organized a “Day of Reflection on the European and Italian Politics of Piero Malvestiti” in November. Finally, in December, a new educational programme for primary schools “Under a Good Star” was launched for primary schools in Florence.

LIBRARY

THE EUI LIBRARY - EUROPE'S SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH LIBRARY

The mission of the EUI Library is to support the research, teaching and training activities of the EUI. The Library aims to provide the best possible collections, services and information tools in the social sciences and humanities, with a particular emphasis on Europe. Account is taken of the academic profile of the EUI, the ever-growing and diverse community as well as of the innovative research and teaching needs. The globalised dimension of research, the linguistic diversity, and the interdisciplinary and comparative aspects of research are important elements in fulfilling this mission.

Research libraries are in a phase of transition, marked by a rather complex shift from a traditional model based on the centralisation of information resources towards a more widely distributed user oriented model. This shift involves numerous changes that deeply affect overall library management and the role of research libraries. It requires libraries to rethink workflows, staff competences and skills, and to take into account user behaviour and expectations.

Like most academic libraries, the EUI's provides two parallel infrastructures, the traditional and the digital, both of which are essential for research purposes. In 2013, the Library began a reorganization of spaces and print collections to be concluded in 2014. Thanks to the availability of new off-site storages (Villa Poggiolo), parts of lesser-used collections have been moved, improving collection access and user facilities - which is a very significant factor at an international institution where the Library is also a place of social and interdisciplinary exchange. Assuring proper collection development is a core business of the Library. The major shift from print to electronic resources has continued to be both a challenging and unpredictable one, where publishers are merging, titles are cancelled and/or changed, platforms are upgraded and/or migrated, the terms of licences are reviewed and new commercial models for libraries and users are emerging. The increasing number of electronic resources available at the EUI Library requires new skills and competences among staff, as well as a shift in staff allocation.

In 2013, the work on the long-term preservation of digital collections proceeds with both centralised (i.e. Portico) and distributed programmes (i.e. LOCKSS and CLOCKSS). The EUI Library systematically negotiated the inclusion of a preservation clause in licence agreements with all publishers. The project on shared preservation of paper collections with Tuscan libraries was successfully established and will continue throughout 2014 with the possible involvement of other libraries.

The Library continues its commitment to Open Access initiatives, maintaining the EUI's institutional repository Cadmus (which is ranked among the world top 200 repositories) and participating in international programmes (i.e. OpenAire, Dart, Driver). Furthermore the EUI Library maintains a sizeable Data Portal, providing access to major data resources in support of the research objectives of the EUI community. Over the past two years, Library data services have been expanded to include support for Open Data initiatives, data ‘brokering’ and metadata support. These services are outlined in the 2013 Library Research Data Guide.

In 2013, after a thorough study of the market, the Library carried out a tender to purchase a new discovery tool which will be implemented in 2014. This system will offer advanced solutions to better exploit local and remote resources enabling users to carry out simultaneous searching across multiple digital and paper collection using a single integrated interface.

The Library website, a central point for accessing and disseminating information, has been updated continuously so as to facilitate research and deliver a wide range of user services across the EUI campus. To respond to these new developments and expand user awareness, sixty-eight separate user training courses have been offered during the year on a wide range of subject areas. A Library blog has been launched so as to channel easily information on services, new resources and information of a more general nature to the users. Library staff participated in several workshops and conferences which, as well contributing to diverse international professional networks, allowed them to keep abreast of the rapidly evolving environment in scholarly communication, both from a content and technical point of view.

The Library continued its participation in national and international networks, which resulted in important benefits for the staff and the user community. The Library is a member of several associations such as LIBER (the Association of European Research Libraries), the EUROLIB group consisting of Libraries of the European Institutions and agencies, and IFLA - the International Federation of Library Associations. The Library will also pursue its fruitful collaboration with OCLC (WorldCat) and the consortium of Italian universities for the acquisition of electronic resources. Furthermore the Library continues its traineeship programme in collaboration with university library schools in different EU countries: in 2013 young librarians from the Czech Republic, Greece, Italy, Denmark and Spain participated in the programme.

INSTITUTIONAL REPOSITORY

The Library is responsible for the management and monitoring of Cadmus, the EUI Research Repository. The mission of Cadmus is twofold: to collect and archive publications by EUI members and based on research carried out while at the EUI, and to disseminate and communicate the Institute’s research output to the international academic community.

In line with the Open Access principle Cadmus aims at making the full-text publications freely searchable and accessible to all. The EUI signed the Budapest Open Access Initiative on the occasion of its 10th Anniversary in 2012 and in the previous year the Berlin Declaration on Open Access to Knowledge in the Sciences and Humanities. The software used for Cadmus, DSpace, is an Open Archive Initiative (OAI)-compliant open-source software. Being OAI-compliant is of great importance for the visibility of EUI publications since other OAI portals may harvest and display automatically its bibliographic metadata.

On the occasion of the International Open Access week, in order to increase awareness of the importance of open access among EUI members, Cadmus staff organised for the third time, an Open Access week at the EUI (from 21-27 October). The main event this year was a roundtable on Open Access Publishing: Rethinking impact and dissemination. The welcome was given by EUI President, Prof. J. H. H. Weiler. The first session concentrated on Open Access from the perspective of an institutional publisher. Toby Green, head of the OECD’s publishing division, showed how the OECD model combines sustainability with an extensive degree of free access for individuals. The second part looked at how an open and transparent system of peer review could improve the quality of scientific publications and overcome some defects of the widely accepted system of anonymous peer reviewing. Pandelis Perakakis, Co-founder, Open Scholar, presented a talk about the new platform LIBRE.

In line with EUI and EU Open Access policies, work on DSpace upgrade and Cadmus compliancy with OpenAIRE - the Open Access Infrastructure for research in Europe was completed. In practice this means that all publications resulting from EU funding (FP7/ERC/Horizon2020) is made available also on the OpenAIRE portal <https://www.openaire.eu/>

Staff continued its efforts to increase coverage of EUI members’ publication in Cadmus and to provide assistance in copyright matters and information on Open Access, thus facilitating and increasing the visibility of the EUI research output.

To keep up with new developments in scholarly communication and open access initiatives and solutions Cadmus staff attended conferences on OpenAIRE in Ghent (May); the CERN Workshop on Innovations in Scholarly Communication (OAI8) in Geneva (June) (including the Preconference on DSpace), and Open Access Monographs in the Humanities and Social Sciences Conference (London).

At the end of 2013, Cadmus contained 14,750 records with over 3,700 available in full-text. More than 1,300 records were added to Cadmus during 2013. The continuing increase in the number of records can be seen in the following figure.

Some of the most significant improvements made during the year were:

- ranked 1st in Italy - 73rd in Europe and 132nd among institutional repositories over the world - by the July 2013 Ranking web of Repositories, also thanks to a greater visibility on the EUI home page
- Cadmus OpenAIRE compliance was completed in order to comply with EU recommendations on OA
- Cadmus collections became searchable in Worldcat, the world's largest library union catalogue
- Cadmus achieved the highest number ever of visits per month: > 24,000 both in October and November (and nearly 60,000 page views). Total visits in 2013: over 233,000 visits and over 620,000 page views.
- Increasing liaison with EUI ERC and FP7 project directors for a better coverage, display and communication of EUI research output
- A total of 200 EUI theses are available in OA
- More than 100 'old' theses titles were OCR scanned (for digital archival reasons)

- Out of those scanned theses 30 are available in OA (readable online in Cadmus), i.e. almost 1/3 of those scanned
- Other improvements of Cadmus were: linking between EUI theses and Published Book versions, 'clickable' Author names, a new link to list of EUI Open Access theses and easier browsing of Working Papers

The nearly 15,000 publications records in Cadmus are distributed as follows between type of publication:

SHARING AND COMMUNICATING EUI'S RESEARCH OUTPUT IN 2013

Cadmus, the EUI Research Repository, contains the academic publications of its members, where possible available in full-text. The open access repository cadmus.eui.eu had over 230,000 visits in 2013.

Cadmus achieved the highest number ever of visits per month in October and November with more than 24,000 visits (and nearly 60,000 page views). Total visits in 2013 amounted to over 233,000 visits and over 620,000 page views.

In line with the Open Access principle, the scope of Cadmus is to make publications freely accessible to all. The EUI signed the Budapest Open Access Initiative on the occasion of its 10th Anniversary in 2012 and the Berlin Declaration in 2011.

The Repository aims at being an efficient instrument and reliable source to measure and provide the figures on EUI research output in the form of publications. Cadmus is also the source for the EUI Academic Publications Directory, covering all EUI members' published work during one year.

In 2013 close to 1,000 academic contributions were published by EUI members (books, chapters, articles, working papers, research reports and theses, etc.) and registered in Cadmus.

2. SERVICES

REPORTS ON SERVICES

NEW APPOINTMENTS TO HEADS OF SERVICES

In 2013 two new heads of services were appointed. David Scott took up the position of Director of the Information and Communication Technology Service (ICT) in September 2013, replacing Marco Rulent who moved to the Historical Archives of the European Union. With the announcement that Academic Service Director Andreas Frijdal would retire in early 2014, Veerle Deckmyn was appointed to that post. A new Director of the Library is being recruited in 2014, but in the interim, Tommaso Giordano, formerly Deputy Director, will lead the Library as Director until a replacement is found.

David Scott has joined the European University Institute as Director of ICT, having taken up his post on 30 September.

Previously, he was Chief Information Officer at the Dublin Institute of Technology, Director of HEAnet Ireland's National Research Network (NRN), and Director of Information and Learning Technologies at the Smurfit Graduate Business School, University College Dublin. He has extensive experience in senior ICT management within Industry, Finance, and Higher Education sectors.

David holds an M.Sc. degree in ICT in Education by research thesis at the University of Dublin, Trinity College.

Veerle Deckmyn was appointed Director of the Academic Service in October 2013, effective from 1 February 2014. At the time of her appointment she was the Director of the EUI Library, a post she has held since 2004. As Library Director she was also responsible for EUI publications and the EUI website from 2004 until 2011, when the Communications Service was created.

She holds a Law Degree from the University of Leuven, Belgium. She is a native Dutch speaker, and is fluent in French, English and Italian.

Before being appointed as director of the EUI Library, she was the Head of Information & Publication Services and a Senior Lecturer at the European Institute of Public Administration in Maastricht (EIPA), The Netherlands, from 1990-2004. In the latter capacity she gave lectures and organised training on themes such as European Union Information; the Decision-making Process of the EU and Related Information Sources; Information Policy, Transparency and Openness in the EU; and EU Internet sources. She was a regular visiting lecturer at the College of Europe (Natolin programme).

She is the author of several publications on European information, access to documents and research libraries, including the edited volume Increasing Transparency in the European Union? (2002).

ACADEMIC SERVICE

The Academic Service's main task is to provide researchers with all the assistance they need from the time they are interviewed and selected, through registration and the research programme, to the moment they defend their PhD.

The Academic Service is composed of the Human Resources Unit, which is in charge of the recruitment of researchers, post-doctoral fellows and faculty members; the Language Centre; the Careers Information Service; the Counselling and Wellbeing Service; and the Dean of Graduate Studies' Office. In addition, this service coordinates leisure activities for the EUI Community through 4B and coordinates with the EUI Alumni Association.

Here below are some highlights of the Academic Service's activities in 2013.

In 2013, the Office of the Dean of Graduate Studies streamlined and harmonized academic regulations, codes and practices to guarantee a transparent and efficient academic environment.

The postdoctoral programmes continued to attract a large number of applications, and a new record number of candidates, over 1600, submitted an application for Max Weber and/or Jean Monnet Fellowships late October.

In faculty recruitment, two important selections procedures, those of the Directors of the RSCAS and the Max Weber Programme, were successfully concluded in early 2013. A total of 8 vacancies were advertised in 2013, for which we received 218 applications from 35 different countries.

2013 saw the introduction of the application of the OSIRIS database. A major effort was made on the part of Academic Service to adapt the new system to the EUI's specific needs and with the precious help of the Computing Service, Academic Service started using the system in late October for the 2014 applications. Work on developing the system further will continue in 2014.

All scheduled activities of the Career Development Programme were offered, including workshops on CV and cover letter writing which were held on two occasions. Owing to the increased interest of researchers in teaching training, the Career Development service also offered the Teaching Skills Week twice.

In addition to standard alumni relations tasks such as handling alumni requests, membership management and updating the alumni database, the alumni relations coordinator organised an alumni reunion in San Francisco and an alumni dinner in Brussels, both of which were well-attended.

A Serendipity on extracurricular activities at the beginning of the academic year proved to be extremely successful with the number of activities continuing to grow and, even more important, the output (e.g. theatrical productions, concerts, participation in rowing competitions, promotion of the men's football team etc.). The organization of the June Ball proved as successful with an alternative classical musical event revealing hidden talent at the EUI. The Institute abounds with creativity and such initiatives are intended to promote a sense of well-being for all concerned.

Through the Erasmus Mundus Programme, links with our partners in China were further consolidated. In view of the launching of Erasmus Plus 2014-2020, the Institute successfully applied for the new Erasmus Charter thereby guaranteeing the Institute's participation in the new and enlarged programme.

The Language Centre continued to support the multilingual, multicultural nature of the EUI research environment with its language courses and editing services. The centre contributed developing the Teaching and Learning initiative launched by the President Marise Cremona, through regular meetings and the preparation of documents for the EUI Teaching and Learning Workshop in April. The Centre also continued to collaborate closely with the Personnel Service in the interviewing procedure for applicants to administrative posts.

The Counselling and Wellbeing Service offered a number of workshops to help researchers to deal better with stress, and, for the first time, also offered a workshop to staff members.

■ ACCOUNTING SERVICE

The Accounting Service's main tasks include the proper implementation of payments sent by the different services, the collection of revenue, the management of the treasury and the registration of all the documents related to revenue and expenditure.

All the transactions are registered using the double entry method based on the calendar year, and the accounts are closed at the end of the financial year in order to prepare the balance sheet and the revenue and expenditure accounts.

During 2013, above and beyond the basic tasks mentioned above, the Service was deeply involved in the preparation of the go-live of the new accrual-based accounting system in January 2014. The new system uses SAP software, which is also used by the Council, the Court of Justice and the Court of Auditors of the E.U. Using this new program has allowed the Institute to once again join the partnership with these three institutions after a gap of several years. The effects of this partnership are very important, in that the EUI is no longer isolated by being the sole user of the old Sucre accounting software. We are now part of an integrated system, hosted and centrally maintained by the Council, while still maintaining the necessary independence due to the Institute's peculiarities. It should also not be underestimated that the costs the Institute will pay are only around 4% of the total maintenance costs of the very expensive Sap platform. It would not have been possible for the EUI to adhere to this program without this savings.

In 2013 the Accounting Service also coordinated the revision of the Financial Rules. The new version included the necessary basic accrual principles resulting from the change of the accounting method mentioned above, but the opportunity was also used to give the text a general revision. This allowed to incorporate other specific needs and remarks that had arisen since the last modification in December 2009.

In addition, the Guidelines for the management of the Pension Reserve Fund were revised. The revisions were discussed during the Supervisory Board meeting of September 2013. The Board approved and the final document was presented to the High Council and adopted by High Council Decision N. 6/2013, dated 6 December 2013.

■ BUDGET AND FINANCIAL AFFAIRS SERVICE

The main mission of the Service is to assist the Principal and Secretary General in organising and rationalising the EUI's administrative financial operations, actively supporting the academic section in achieving its institutional goals as provided for in the Convention in terms of teaching and research.

Realization of yearly objectives

New accrual approach

From 2014 the EUI adopted the Accrual-based accounting system. In 2013 the whole financial administration was engaged in this important project approved by the Budget Committee and the High Council.

Implementation of the Management Team decision related to the new organisation of the financial services

The change in accounting system entails that the EUI re-thinks its system of signature delegation.

In 2013 the service elaborated a new system defining specific procedures addressing the need to clarify the competencies and responsibilities of the financial management

New Financial rules

The new organisation of the financial services as well as the new accrual approach implied an analysis and a revision of the EUI financial rules with a view to taking into account the changes implied by this move. The service collaborated with the other administrative units involved and with the external expert who drafted the preliminary version in order to finalise the proposal for the Financial Authorities.

2014 EC contribution to the budget (new activities: multiannual financial framework)

Pursuant to the European Commission's decision to continue providing specific support to the EUI through the Jean Monnet Programme in the framework of the financial perspectives 2014-2020, the Service was asked to define specific technical scenarios.

External/Internal Audits

The BFA Staff was also requested to support the various Audit activities:

- Formal EUI Auditors appointed by the High Council
- Internal Audit Service
- External Audit activities on specific projects
- External Audit activities on the EU running cost contribution to the budget
- External Audit activities of the European Court of Auditors

Much more in general we can state that the Service deals with a variety of financial operations and for this reason one of its constant priorities has been to evaluate the capacity of the budget to work as an instrument which reflects the impact of specific managerial dynamics and decision-making, whilst maintaining its a level of transparency vis-à-vis third parties.

The activities in three specific areas deserve special emphasis, and are listed below.

Technical and Policy Issues

EUI/EC Contract: particular attention was dedicated to the negotiation with the Commission (DG EAC) of the contract relative to the annual operating grant to the budget. The issue is distinguished by its extreme complexity and the requirement to harmonize the Community rules with the procedures and regulations of an intergovernmental institution such as the EUI.

The Evolution of Day-to-day Administration

To give a better idea of the scope of the activities performed by the Service, it will help to recall that it manages the financial administration of the budget relating to:

- The statutory staff of the Institute
- The externally-funded research activities budget.
- The operating budget of all the academic departments/centres, and all the administrative units (with the sole exception of the Library – running cost budget).

In other words, in addition to the standard co-ordination of the general budget expenditure, the employees in this Service are required to perform direct administrative operations relating to approximately 96% of the budget.

Externally-funded Activities

The area which has developed most in the last years is that dedicated to supporting top management and academic staff in their fundraising activities. This applies both to the initial phase of negotiating the financing and to the related financial administration.

■ COMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

The Service continued to manage the newly created EUI corporate visual identity providing general or specific assistance and advice to staff members.

The new brand identity was implemented across the board for all publications. The service further developed EUI Life, a monthly electronic newsletter, informing faculty, researchers, staff and alumni about news, events and activities going on at the EUI), and EUI Times, a quarterly electronic magazine highlighting the academic activities of the EUI that is aimed at internal and external academic and stakeholder audiences.

Media relations with leading newspapers' and agencies' representatives and journalists were further developed through a structured media strategy.

Several media partnerships were signed with top international and national media to secure free advertisement for the EUI and special events such as The State of the Union conference and the EUI Energy Forum.

The service coordinated and supported high-level, multi-stakeholder visits and events.

The State of the Union annual conference, a high-level discussion on the state of the European Union, brought together leading academics, policy-makers and business leaders to discuss the current situation and future prospects of the EU. The conference has been an extraordinary mechanism to increase the EUI's visibility worldwide, developing awareness of the EUI, its reputation and mission. More than 200 international, national and local journalists attended the event. After three successful editions the event has positioned itself among the most relevant international events of its kind.

The service supported the promotion of the EUI PhD Doctoral programme through several marketing activities (online and on the social media) and organising ad hoc promotional presentations in a selection of universities in key European countries.

The Service undertook a survey with the EUI alumni and has manually revised and updated a large number of alumni contact details. The Service increased the interaction and engagement with the alumni through career profile interviews, making the alumni directory more user-friendly, and having the alumni participate in EUI events.

The Communications Service supported and maintained the EUI main website as well as all the Projects, events and blogs websites, bringing innovation and implementing new technologies relevant to the EUI general and specific needs in the web related areas.

The Service provided specific training and support to the wide EUI Web Professionals working group and co-ordinated the work of several collaborators in the web area. The Service also fixed urgent issues related to the CMS Provider.

The Communications Service implemented maintained and supported a large number of web communications tools for marketing and visibility in the web area.

Presence on the main Social Media was increased significantly, as well as usage of new online web communications services (e.g. MailChimp, SoundCloud, YouTube).

Together with technical development, a new Search Engine Optimization (SEO) strategy was designed and implemented, in order to improve the ranking of all the EUI main websites and to better support web communications campaigns.

A great success was reached with the PhD recruitment campaigns, with the multimedia production service, and with the web 2.0 tools like blogs and social media tools.

The audience on the EUI social media channels on Facebook and Twitter was strongly increased, keeping the quality of our followers high.

■ INFORMATION AND COMMUNICATION TECHNOLOGY SERVICE

The ICT Service supports the needs of the EUI academic and administrative units by providing the necessary information technology (IT) infrastructure and services. The activities of the ICT Service range from supporting some major strategic projects affecting the entire EUI community, to providing support to the day-to-day activities of its academic and administrative units.

Main 2013 achievements

During 2013, the ICT Service went through a period of unusual change. The former Head of Service, Marco Rulent, moved to the Historical Archives of the European Union. While the Institute searched for a replacement, the Director of the Library, Veerle Deckmyn, served as the Director ad interim.

Major strategic developments beyond the 2013/2017 period were suspended to ensure that operational matters were prioritised and the integrity of core ICT services and systems maintained.

In keeping with the EUI's strategic direction of working within the bounds of innovation, rationalisation and risk-mitigation, the ICT Service concentrated its energies on optimising the technical facilities and resources e.g. e-administration tools, for the professors, researchers, and administrative staff.

Other notable achievements include the successful completion of the first phase of the transition from a cash-based accounting system to the Accrual system, otherwise referred to as the Accrual Based Accounting (ABAC) project. We are currently on schedule to fully complete the transition by 2015. This brings the EUI a step closer to making its financial processes more readily understandable and reliable, and promoting greater transparency overall. Staff of the Budget and Financial Affairs Service, the Accounting Service, and the Internal Audit Service all attended ICT facilitated training.

Another important challenge of the Institute was the requirement to document and modify administration workflow and modify related business structures. The Personnel Application tool Dolphin was introduced, which enabled the administration to begin simplifying its work processes using one centralised document repository.

In response to the EUI's need for a centralised system to handle user support requests, the ICT Service, in conjunction with the Real Estate and Facilities Service and the Communications Service, launched the EUI Helpdesk, consisting of an online portal and a manual telephone service.

A key objective of the Academic and Research Strategy was the implementation of the new Research application OSIRIS. This was partially implemented in the provision of the core administration module.

The ICT Service ensured that technical equipment and services were available to all of the EUI administration which moved to the new Villa Salvati premises. The User Support Group facilitated the relocation of PCs and telephones and made the transition as smooth as possible. In addition, during the Institute closure at Christmas, the RSCAS staff move was accomplished with little or no disruption to the user community.

Finally, given the increasing risks and expenditure of organisational resources on information security, coupled with increasingly stringent regulations and liabilities, it was recognised that at least one full-time resource would be dedicated to the field of Information Security, and so the role of IT Security Officer was created.

INTERNAL AUDIT SERVICE

Throughout the course of 2013, while working to achieve its specific objectives, Internal Audit Service (IAS) focused on streamlining further the audit process; promoting the role of IAS across the EUI as a critical friend, that provides constructive recommendations aimed to improve the efficiency and overall compliance with the rules; and promoting IAS advisory functions during the pre-implementation phase of a project and whenever an advice on the proper application of rules and procedures is needed

The following summary highlights the results of key activities performed in 2013 by the IAS:

Sap Pre-Implementation

IAS was involved with the revision of the EUI Financial Rules setting up the regulatory framework for the new accounting approach. The service participated, also, in the workshops and gap analysis leading to the draft of the blueprint of the new system. In September 2013, IAS issued an interim report on the general state of the SAP pre-implementation. The report summarized ongoing concerns and requested specific actions from the project team before IAS could deliver a general opinion on the overall implementation process of SAP and on the related operational changes.

Ex-post Check on Library financial operations

In 2013 IAS performed a review of commitments and payments made by the Library. The recommended actions by IAS would help the Library to further improve its financial management. In addition, the need to adapt certain internal rules to the context in which the Library is operating has been underlined. The final report along with the action plans committed by the Library will be issued in 2014.

Follow up of IAS recommendations

IAS followed up on findings from 2010 Ex post check on annual payments to suppliers above 5,000€. Once again, IAS observed a large number of suppliers of products and services used by the ICT that appeared to be in a position of virtual/technical/de facto monopoly, causing a significant number of exceptions. Similar to the observations for the Library above, IAS recommended a revision of the internal rules that would reflect the peculiarities of the procurement needs of ICT.

For the former Buildings and Logistics services, most of the original issues had not been resolved, but calls for tenders were in the process. IAS is going to revisit the situation at a later date.

Monitoring of Internal Control System

A review on the self-reported control designs and actions provided by the services through the annual questionnaire on the Internal Control Standards has been performed. The services that were selected for the analysis were Communications and Real Estate and Facilities Services, as both were recently established. The results from the review showed that the ownership over the ethical training of staff at the EUI was not clear, the staff did not have adequate tools for searching and applying decisions in force, and there was lack of understanding of the practical implementation of certain Internal Control Standards. The issues and the proposed action plans were brought up to the attention of the Management Team.

Audit Certificates for projects funded by EC/ERC

In 2013 IAS prepared 5 independent reports on factual findings for research projects funded by the European Commission and the European Research Council.

■ PERSONNEL SERVICE

The main mission of the Service is to assist the Principal and Secretary General in organising and rationalising the EUI's administrative operation in the HR area, actively supporting the academic section in achieving its institutional goals as provided for in the Convention in terms of teaching and research.

Realization of yearly objectives

Major human resources turnover and personnel replacement

The Personnel Service was engaged in managing (planning and implementing policies) the huge turnover of top managers and crucial, experienced members of the EUI administrative staff.

The target was (and still is) to attract and retain the right calibre of staff to meet EUI's evolving needs. This challenge has/had to be met while at the same time making every effort to follow the key principles of the EUI's recruitment philosophy.

As in the recent past, the service managed a significant increase in academic staff numbers.

Recruitment of teaching staff: partners' policy

On the basis of the guidelines received by the President, the Service proposed the development of a new policy for the employment of teaching staff partners in different fields of the EUI's activities.

Legal framework: reorganisation of the EUI statutory texts

In the framework of the EUI strategic objective aimed at reorganising the EUI legal text the Personnel service dedicated special attention to the EUI staff rules, including the related implementing decisions taken by the President.

The main results can be summarised as follows:

- Recruitment: President's Decision 53/13 adopting Guidelines to Competitions for Posts at the EUI.
- Recruitment: President's Decision 54/13 adopting General Implementing Provisions for the use of the European Personnel Selection Office (EPSO) reserve lists (eRL and CAST databases) for staff selection procedures.

- Promotions: President's Decision 55/13 laying down the procedure for implementing Article 45(2) of the EUI Staff Regulations regarding the third language requirement before the first promotion.
- Disciplinary proceedings - administrative procedures: President's Decision 43/13 adopting general implementing provisions on the conduct of administrative inquiries and disciplinary procedures.
- Décision N° 38/13 du Président «relative à l'avancement d'échelon prévu pour les assistants départementaux auxquels est reconnue une responsabilité hiérarchique.»

Assessment / Promotion policies

The promotion system was revised so as to more clearly distinguish the procedures of staff assessment and promotion, to clarify the criteria on the basis of which decisions on promotion are taken, to increase transparency of the process and to introduce an appeal procedure in respect of recommendations for promotion.

Management of the staff personal rights: Reinforcing the administrative links with the European Institutions

During the year 2014 the administration will have to evaluate the "new" staff rules of the European Institutions and prepare the work of the High Council in order to evaluate the implementation at the EUI.

In the light of the above during 2013 a special effort was made in order to keep and reinforce the administrative informal link with the EU Institutions.

To evaluate and implement the results of the BC Working group on "teaching staff pension scheme"

In strict collaboration with the Working Group members the Service prepared the draft decision aimed at addressing some specific issues related to the teaching staff (TS) pension scheme.

Training

In 2013 the service further developed the file related to the implementation of the online Personal Development Map (PDM) which allows direct training enrolment procedures and follow-up.

■ REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING SERVICES

The Real Estate and Facilities Service (REFS) was created on 1 October 2012 to manage the infrastructure and facilities on all EUI premises. REFS is responsible for the maintenance of buildings, grounds and technical infrastructure; security and safety; environmental services; the purchase office; EUI canteens; the housing services; the welcome service; organization of events; management and distribution of furniture and official materials; document reproduction and printing; translations, mail service, central filing and protocol office; and the EUI “crèche”.

2013 marks the first full year of activity for REFS. Beyond providing the usual day-to-day services mentioned above, considerable resources were dedicated to consolidating the service and handling a number of important new projects. Highlighted below are some of its more important activities with regard to Buildings, User Services, Tenders and Events.

Buildings

The service manages 16 buildings, for a total area of 31,000 square meters. In 2013 REFS implemented a sophisticated building management software which allows complete, simple and rapid registration and management of all information related to our infrastructure. In addition, in light of the expansion of the Institute and the delivery of the Manica of Villa Salviati, the Service executed the detailed roadmap regarding the allocation of space decided upon by the President ad interim Marise Cremona in December 2012. This road map involved works in all existing buildings, the addition of one new building (Villa Paola) and the relocations of roughly 200 people between July and December 2013. Finally, in 2013 REFS implemented the 2013 Italian Ministry of infrastructure extraordinary maintenance programme, thanks to the delivery of funds in 2012 and 2013.

User Services

REFS counts 1100 individuals among its users of the various services listed above. A 2013 analysis of the last user survey carried out by the Logistics Service confirmed a trend of overall good to very good levels of user satisfaction. Many constructive comments allowed the Real Estate and Facilities Service to improve areas where user satisfaction fell short of expectation.

In June 2013 REFS launched the EUI Helpdesk, an online service request interface for needs concerning REFS, ICT and the WEB. The system is based on tickets and has been positively received by users for its efficiency. It also serves as an important tracking and reporting instrument for service requests. REFS also completely revised its webpages in 2013 to reflect the reorganization of the service and to be more proactive.

With regard to archives, mail and protocol, REFS, together with the HAEU, made an important step forward in its electronic record management and searchable archiving of EUI documentation.

Finally, as of 1 September 2013 all new EUI flats at via Faentina 384A were successfully rented to EUI members. The Housing Office of the REFS continues to offer assistance to EUI members in the private local rental market through its online database.

Tenders

Important tenders scheduled for the year 2013, representing half of the REF budget, were successfully carried out allowing for cost savings in various areas.

Events

Among the many activities supporting EUI events was the logistics assistance to the Communication Service in the organisation of the 2013 State of the Union Conference, which included the participation of numerous internationally important political figures.

THE RESEARCH COUNCIL

The Research Council's principal mission is to advise the Institute's governing bodies (the Principal, the High Council and the Academic Council, etc.) on decisions relating to research. It meets annually and evaluates proposals for major research projects and approves the allocation of funding. In 2013, the Research Council met on 10 May and was chaired by the EUI's President ad interim, Marise Cremona.

January 2014

■ OUTLINE

- Aims
- Dataset characteristics
- Variable definitions
- Descriptive analysis
- Multivariate analysis

■ Aims

- Description and analysis of PhD researchers' selection and doctoral careers at the EUI.

■ Research Questions

1. How have applications, admissions and acceptance rates changed at the EUI from 1977 to 2012?
2. How many of the admitted students fail in getting their PhD degree at the EUI?
3. How many researchers complete their PhDs within a certain period of time?
4. How do PhD careers vary across entry cohorts and the four departments?
5. Do individuals' socio-demographic characteristics affect PhD careers and success at the EUI?

■ The Dataset

- The dataset contains anonymized information about the number of applicants and admitted PhD researchers starting at the EUI from September 1976 to September 2012.
- N=3,583 students.
- Administrative information includes:
  - EUI statistics on applications and admissions.
  - The encrypted ID of admitted students and their supervisors.
  - Dates on educational careers (month, year) including: time of entry into the PhD programme, time of thesis submission, and time of thesis defence.
  - Periods of absence from the EUI (grant suspension; other.)
  - Socio-demographic characteristics.

Definitions of events and times

- Acceptance rate: (N of admissions / N of applicants) * 100
- Dropouts: individuals who entered the EUI but left the PhD program without completing.
- Completions: individuals who entered the EUI and submitted their PhD thesis.
- Total study duration: based on monthly data date of thesis submission – date of EUI entrance.
- Net study duration: total study duration in months – months of grant suspension.
- Observation window: Researchers are followed for 10 years of net time after entry for cohorts 1976-89 and 1990-99 and up to 6 years for the cohort 2000-12.

*Since there is a high correlation between total study duration and net study duration (.94), we show here only the results for net study duration.

Changes in acceptance rates

Changes in the number of applicants by department

Changes in the number of admissions by department

Changes in acceptance rates by department

Remarks

- There have been remarkable differences in the number of applicants across departments and over time.
- In all departments the number of admissions has been monotonically rising over time.
- There have been greater differences in the acceptance rates across departments over time.
- A higher acceptance rate might reflect lower selectivity at entry.

Completion rates by cohort and department

Interpretation: The plots show the cumulative proportion of (admitted) researchers who have completed their degree for every month after entering the EUI program.

Cumulative completion rate by entry cohort

Cumulative completion rate by department

Cumulative completion rate by cohort and department (during the first 60 months or first five years)

Cumulative completion rate by cohort and department (from 60 to 120 months or 5 to 10 years)

Remarks

- There has been a remarkable increase in researchers' success rates and a dramatic decline in PhD duration at the EUI.
- These results suggest that the introduction of a more structured PhD program (at the beginning of the 1990s) and the introduction of a fourth year of funding (at the beginning of the 2000s) have been effective.
- There are differences in the probability of remaining in the PhD program after 14 months, and in PhD completion after 6 years across departments.
- Selection after the first year only slightly increases the probability of completion within 6 years.
- If we look at the overall sample, we do not find much variation across departments.
- However, examining changes over cohorts, SPS researchers have the longest duration of completion in the oldest cohort and the shortest duration of completion in the youngest.

Completion rates by individual socio-demographic characteristics

Comparing two models of selection

Remarks

- A higher acceptance rate (or lower selectivity at entry) is connected with a lower success rate.
- However, the impact of the acceptance rate disappears completely when the three historical periods of the EUI are included in the model; i.e., the change in PhD programme structuration at the EUI seems to be the most important factor for the success rate.
- If we look at the effect of the acceptance rate within each of the three different historical periods, there is no evidence of any additional effect of the degree of selectivity at entry at the EUI on the success rate.
- There seems to be no important differences between the two models: (1) a higher level of selectivity at entry and lower selectivity at the end of the first year (e.g. in the SPS department) and (2) a lower level of selectivity at entry and higher selectivity at the end of the first year (e.g. in the ECO department.)
- There is no evidence for differences in the success rate regarding gender, marital, and parental status.
- A younger age at entry is connected with a higher success rate.
- Anglo-Saxon and in particular Eastern European PhD students have a lower success rate.
- The success rate increases at first and then decreases with study duration; the highest success rate can be found between 4-5 years of study duration.
