- Florence is not only Renaissance, it is Risorgimento as well. Few years after the Italy unification Florence became Capital of the Italian Reign. Due to the new social and political conditions, Florence was object of a real urbanistic revolution in consequence of which the old walls were replaced by large boulevards and new institutional and representative buildings were erected. The Hotel Firenze Capitale is located at the second floor of one of those buildings, originally used for the foreign embassies. Totally renovated, the hotel has seven large rooms five of which decorated with original 19th century frescos. Elegant and comfortable, the hotel is perfect for pleasant stays which will allow our guests to feel at home after a tour or a long working day.
