Seminar Description and Objectives

The aim of the workshop is to support researchers at the beginning of their PhD to plan and prepare for fieldwork. It means to provide space to reflect, workshop and apply research techniques (already grasped during coursework) to specific projects or contexts. No fieldwork experience is the same, so the workshop will include a variety of perspectives on navigating EUI procedures (e.g. ethics review, risk assessment), getting access to the field, interacting with the researched communities, recognizing your 'data,' and leaving the field.
