■ INTRODUCTION

This workshop brings together leading thinkers from Europe and the United States to discuss some of the most pressing and important political and strategic issues currently facing Europe. This workshop, which consists of six three-hour meetings, is interdisciplinary, with sessions on issues ranging from geopolitics and global strategy, to political economy and economic governance, to human rights and international law. Participants at the workshop, which is part of the Academy of Global Governance Executive Training Seminars, will include academic researchers and policy practitioners from both inside and outside the EUI. Each session will also include an interactive exercise in which participants are asked to analyse and discuss a current policy issue. This workshop is intended for those who are interested in thinking about the theory and history of Europe's role in international affairs and about contemporary global challenges facing Europe.

Sessions and presenters include:

Robert Cooper | European Council on Foreign Relations
Global strategy and European Security and Defence Policy

James Sperling | University of Akron, USA
The European Union as a Security Actor: Ambitions, Capabilities and Performance

Anne-Marie Slaughter | New America Foundation
America's Global Challenges: Can Europe Help?

Andrew Moravcsik | Princeton University, USA
