MAX WEBER LECTURE SERIES - LAW FELLOWS SEMINAR

The Max Weber Program and the law Department announce a seminar during which Max Weber law fellows will present their current research. This is also an opportunity for fellows to benefit from comments and critics to improve their research. The seminar is opened to all: researchers, faculty, fellows and staff members of all departments and of all programs at EUI.

The seminar will take place every Monday from January 21st, 2008 in Sala Cappella from 11 am to 1 pm. For any further information, you can contact the Max Weber law representative, Anicée van Engeland: Anicee.Vanengeland@eui.eu

All are welcome to attend and we hope to see you there.

Monday, January 21, 2008
Hannes Hofmeister
Assessing the Legality of a pre-emptive Strike against Tehran’s nuclear sites

Monday January 28, 2008
Giesela Ruhl
Party Autonomy in International Contracts: Comparative and Economic Observations

Monday, February 4, 2008
Anicée Van Engeland
Interpretations of peace and war in Islamic law

Monday, February 11, 2008
Maria Belen Olmos Giupponi
Which human rights illegal aliens are entitled to? An analysis of the recent international practice

Monday, February 18, 2008
Ming Sung Kuo
Two Constitutional Exceptions: How Close Is Constitutional Genesis to Constitutional Emergency?

Monday, February 25, 2008
Francesco Maiani,
The impact of EC asylum standards in European third countries – conditionality-driven and functionally-driven processes of legal export" (provisional title)

Monday, March 3, 2008
Wojciech Zaluski
Three models of the origins of law

Monday, March 10, 2008
Arthur Dyevre
Sociopolitical Approaches to Judicial Lawmaking

Monday, March 17, 2008
Ekaterina Mouliarova
Globalisation and Impact of European Values on the Russian legal Order