Forum Members

David Adler is a political economist and General Coordinator of the Progressive International. He is the co-founder of the Green New Deal for Europe campaign, and previously served as policy coordinator of the Democracy in Europe Movement. His research and writing have been featured in the New York Times, Washington Post, and the Guardian, among others.

Rosa Balfour is director of Carnegie Europe. Her fields of expertise include European politics, institutions, and foreign and security policy. Her current research focuses on the relationship between domestic politics and Europe's global role. She has researched and published widely for academia, think tanks, and the international press on issues relating to European politics and international relations, especially on the Mediterranean region, Eastern Europe and the Balkans, EU enlargement, international support for civil society, and human rights and democracy. Balfour is also a member of the steering committee of Women in International Security Brussels (WIIS-Brussels) and an associate fellow at LSE IDEAS. In 2018 and 2019, she was awarded a fellowship on the Europe's Futures program at the Institute for Human Sciences in Vienna. Since 2021, she is also an honorary patron of the University Association for Contemporary European Studies (UACES). Prior to joining Carnegie Europe, Balfour was a senior fellow at the German Marshall Fund of the United States. She was also director of the Europe in the World program at the European Policy Centre in Brussels and has worked as a researcher in Rome and London.

Prof. Dr. Luiza Bialasiewicz is a political geographer and Chair of European Governance at the University of Amsterdam, where she also co-directs the Amsterdam Centre for European Studies (ACES). Since 2013, she is permanent Visiting Professor at the College of Europe, Natolin where she teaches an annual course on 'European Geopolitics'. Her own research examines the intersections between geopolitics and domestic politics, with particular attention to questions of borders and migration. She is one of the editors of Environment and Planning C: Politics and Space, a journal of critical and heterodox research into the relations between the political and the spatial.

Paul Blokker is Associate Professor in Political Sociology at the University of Bologna and research collaborator at Charles University in Prague. His research focuses on the sociology of constitutions, constitutional politics, democratic participation, and populism. Among his recent publications are: 2020, 'Constitutional resistance in populist times ', Federal Law Review; 2019, 'Varieties of Populist Constitutionalism: The Transnational Dimension', German Law Journal; 2017, Sociological Constitutionalism (edited with Chris Thornhill), Cambridge University Press. E-mail: paulus.blokker@unibo.it Amandine Crespy is Associate Professor at Université libre de Bruxelles (Cevipol/IEE) and Visiting Professor at the College of Europe (Bruges). Her research deals with politicization and contestation in the EU in relation with socio-economic governance. Her work has been published in numerous journals, edited volumes and four monographs including Politics and Governance in the Post-Crisis European Union (CUP, 2020, co-editor with R. Coman and V. Schmidt) and The European Social Question. Tackling Key Controversies (forthcoming in 2021, Agenda). She also regularly publishes analyses and op-eds on European politics in the press, debating websites, and has collaborated with several think tanks.

Dr. Abdolrasool Divsallar co-Leads the Regional Security Initiative at the Middle East Directions Programme of the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies at the European University Institute (EUI). In this role, he coordinates a combination of theory and policy research activities aiming at de-escalating regional rivalries and rethinking security architecture in the Persian Gulf region. He is also an Adjunct Professor of Middle Eastern Studies at the Graduate School of Universita' Cattolica (ASERI), teaching courses on 'Regional disorder' and 'Iranian strategic thought.' Previously, Divsallar was a Policy Leader Fellow at the School of Transnational Governance at the EUI and a senior fellow at the Institute for Middle East Strategic Studies in Tehran. His research focus includes Iran's military-strategic thinking, great power politics in the Middle East, and comparative threat perception. He twitts @Divsallar

Daniela Heimpel works as an Affiliated Researcher at the Centre Marc Bloch in Berlin. She completed a doctoral thesis in political science on the question of a European citizenship education (Université de Montréal / Université de Nantes, 2020). Her research interests include citizenship education, democracy, European citizenship, bi- and multilingual education, pluralism, transnationalism, cosmopolitanism, and EU integration. From 2014 to 2018, she co-directed a collaborative research project on "Challenges of pluralism" in liberal societies, notably in Europe and North America. Her publications include the edited volume "Les défis du pluralisme" (PUM, 2018).

Dominik Hierlemann is a Senior Expert and Head of the "Democracy and Participation in Europe" project at the Bertelsmann Stiftung, Germany. He holds a Master's in Public Policy and a PhD in Social Sciences from the University of Konstanz. Dominik conceptualized various innovative citizen participation formats. He was responsible for the Citizens'Forum 2011, which has been the biggest project in the field of citizen engagement in Germany. It involved 25 cities, 100 online-facilitators and 10.000 randomly selected participants. More recently he has organized the first transnational and digital EU Citizens' Dialogue with the EU Commission. Dominik facilitated numerous events with i.e. the German Chancellor, the Federal President, and EU Commissioners.

Alice Hubbard is a Policy Leader Fellow at the School of Transnational Governance and a young leader in the transnational environmental justice movement. Her work at the EUI focuses on amplifying young Global South voices in transnational networks responding to climate change and social justice. She has held previous roles as Secretary of Global Young Greens and International Coordinator of the Green Party of England and Wales. Alice is also a founding member of the Young EUI Democracy Forum.

Daniel Innerarity is a Professor of Political Philosophy, "Ikerbasque" researcher at the University of the Basque Country, and part-time Professor at the European University Institute of Florence (School of Transnational Governance). Former fellow of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation at the University of Munich, visiting professor at the University of Paris 1-Sorbonne, visiting fellow in the London School of Economics, and at Georgetown University. His recent books in English include: The democracy in Europe (2018), Politics in the Times of Indignation (2019) and A Theory of Complex Democracy (2021).

Erik Jones is Professor of European Studies and International Political Economy at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS) and a Senior Research Associate at the Istituto per gli Studi di Politica Internazionale (ISPI) in Milan. He is author of The Politics of Economic and Monetary Union (2002), Economic Adjustment and Political Transformation in Small States (2008), Weary Policeman: American Power in an Age of Austerity (2012, with Dana H. Allin), and The Year the European Crisis Ended (2014). Professor Jones is also co-editor of Government & Opposition and a contributing editor of Survival.

Ayşe Kadıoğlu is Professor of Political Science at Sabancı University, Istanbul. In addition to authored/co-edited books, she has published several articles in Middle East Journal, Middle Eastern Studies, International Migration, Muslim World, Citizenship Studies, Critique: Critical Middle Eastern Studies, Middle East Law and Governance, Philosophy and Social Criticism. She was the Acting President of Sabancı University (2016-2018) and the Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (2013-2017) at Sabancı University. She has a PhD in Political Science (1990, Boston University); M.A. in International Relations (1984, The University of Chicago); B.Sci. in Political Science (1982, Middle East Technical University).

Ivan Krastev is the chairman of the Centre for Liberal Strategies and permanent fellow at the Institute for Human Sciences, IWM Vienna. He is a founding board member of the European Council on Foreign Relations, a member of the Board of Trustees of The International Crisis Group and is a contributing opinion writer for the New York Times. He is the author of "Is it Tomorrow, Yet? How the Pandemic Changes Europe" (Penguin, October 2020); The Light that Failed: A Reckoning (Allen Lane, 2019), co-authored with Stephen Holmes - won the 30th Annual Lionel Gelber Prize; "After Europe" (UPenn Press, 2017); "Democracy Disrupted. The Global Politics on Protest" (UPenn Press, 2014) and "In Mistrust We Trust: Can Democracy Survive When We Don't Trust Our Leaders?" (TED Books, 2013). Ivan Krastev is the winner of the Jean Améry Prize for European Essay Writing 2020.

Brigid Laffan is Director and Professor at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies and Director of the Global Governance Programme at the European University Institute (EUI), Florence. She was Director of the European Governance and Politics Programme until August 2020. In August 2013, Professor Laffan joined us after leaving the School of Politics and International Relations (SPIRe) University College Dublin (UCD), where she was Professor of European Politics. She was Vice-President of UCD and Principal of the College of Human Sciences from 2004 to 2011. Previously, she was the founding director of the Dublin European Institute UCD from 1999 and in March 2004 she was elected as a member of the Royal Irish Academy. She is a member of the Board of the Mary Robinson Foundation for Climate Justice, the Fulbright Commission (until September 2013) and was the 2013 Visiting Scientist for the EXACT Marie Curie

Network. In November 2018 she was ranked among the women who shape Europe by POLITICO and was also awarded by the University of Limerick Alumni Association with its highest honour. In September 2014 Professor Laffan was awarded the UACES Lifetime Achievement Award. In 2012 she was awarded the THESEUS Award for outstanding research on European Integration. In 2010 she was awarded the Ordre national du Mérite by the President of the French Republic.

Stefan Lehne is currently Visiting Scholar at Carnegie Europe (Brussels) and lecturer at the Diplomatic Academy in Vienna. His diplomatic career included positions as director general for political affairs in the Austrian Foreign Ministry and director for the Balkans and Eastern Europe in the General Secretariat of the Council of the EU. His current research focuses on the reform prospects of the EU, on EU foreign policy and on migration.

Maira Lopez-Canellas is part of the first cohort of the MA in Transnational Governance (STG) at the EUI. She completed a BA in Philosophy, Politics and Economics between Barcelona and Madrid (joint degree offered by UPF-UAM-UC3M) and studied at the University of Essex (UK) for a year. She would like to contribute to building an EU of greater equity between and within Member States, and more constructive and cooperative relations with our Mediterranean neighbours. Passionate about ensuring that the power of data, the Internet and social media are harnessed towards building more inclusive, peaceful, and empowered communities. Working to secure a future where everyone's socioeconomic, cultural, and environmental rights are guaranteed.

Ian Manners is Professor in the Department of Political Science at Lund University. He has previously worked at the University of Copenhagen, Roskilde University, Danish Institute for International Studies, Malmö University, University of Kent, Swansea University, and University of Bristol. Manners works at the nexus of critical social theory and the study of the European Union in planetary politics. He has authored and co-edited numerous books including Transnational Solidarity (2020), Ontological Insecurity in the European Union (2019), Foreign Policies of EU Member States (2017), Research Methods in European Union Studies (2015), and Det europeiska projektet: juridik och politik – historia och framtid (2013).

Dylan Casey Marshall is an M.A. student at the European University Institute's School of Transnational Governance. He holds an LL.B. in International and European Law from The Hague University of Applied Science and has previously undertaken internships at the European Federation of Public Service Unions in Brussels, Belgium and the Max Planck Institute of Comparative Public Law and International Law in Heidelberg, Germany. His main interests lie in constitutional theory, democracy in the EU, labour issues, and socio-economic inequalities.

Hedvig Morvai is Director of Strategy and Europe at the ERSTE Foundation in Vienna. In 2007 she participated in establishing of the European Fund for Balkans where she was the executive director for more than a decade. Prior to this she served as director of the Citizens' Pact for South Eastern Europe. Hedvig is author and initiator of a number of outreach and advocacy initiatives focused on dialogue and exchange. She developed her multi-disciplinary approach to leadership in regional co-operation and European integration in civic activism, philanthropy and regional politics. She created and ran capacity building initiatives and training programmes focused on good governance, community development, citizen participation and public policies. She studied law, international law and communications in Novi Sad and Belgrade. In 2006 she was laureate of the Maja Marsicevic-Tasic Foundation's "Conquering Freedom Award".

Liav Orgad is the Director of the Research Group "Global Citizenship Governance" at the RSCAS, European University Institute, Head of the Research Group "International Citizenship Law" at the WZB Berlin Social Science Center, Faculty Member at the Berlin Graduate School for Global and Transregional Studies, Distinguished Scholar in Residence at Peking University School of Transnational Studies (China), and a Professor at the Lauder School of Government, Interdisciplinary Center Herzliya (Israel). His research focuses on democratic theory, citizenship studies, constitutional identity, global governance, and digitalization. Previously, Orgad was a Faculty Fellow at the Center for Ethics at Harvard University, a Visiting Professor at Columbia Law School and FGV Direito Rio, a Marie Curie Fellow at Freie Universität Berlin, and a Fulbright/Rothschild Scholar at NYU Law School. He is currently writing a book, The Future of Citizenship: How Technology Shapes Membership and Belonging (CUP, under contract); his previous book, The Cultural Defense of Nations: A Liberal Theory of Majority Rights, was published by OUP (2016).

Márta Pardavi is co-chair of the Hungarian Helsinki Committee, a leading human rights NGO in Budapest that works to advance democratic values, the rule of law and a strong civil society, the right to asylum and a fair criminal justice system. A lawyer by training, she has been awarded the 2018 William D. Zabel Human Rights Award from Human Rights First, Civil Rights Defender's Civil Rights Defenders of the Year 2019 award and was chosen to be a member POLITICO28 Class of 2019. Currently on sabbatical leave from the HHC, Márta is a Policy Leader Fellow at the School of Transnational Governance of the European University Institute.

Claudio Radaelli, a political scientist specialised in public policy, joined the School of Transnational Governance as Professor in September 2020. His research interests include the policy process of the European Union, the effects of EU policies on the Member States, the roles and usages of expertise and ideas in public policy and administration, regulatory reform, and regulatory analysis tools. Professor Radaelli was awarded two advanced grants by the European Research Council. He brings to the European University Institute the ERC project Protego, Procedural Tools for Effective Governance. He has published more than 80 articles in refereed political science journals and 55 book chapters. As visiting Professor at the College of Europe in Bruges, he offers a workshop on regulatory reform. Professor Radaelli has trained public managers from more than 30 countries in how to use regulatory policy instruments. He is the editor-in-chief of the International Review of Public Policy. He serves on the editorial boards of journals such as European Journal of Risk and Regulation, Journal of Public Policy, Political Studies Review, and Regulation & Governance. Prior to joining the STG, he was Professor of Public Policy at University College London (2018-2020), Director of the Centre for European Governance at the University of Exeter (2004-2018) and Professor of Public Policy at the University of Bradford. Professor Radaelli is on long-term leave of absence from UCL. He was awarded the annual IdEx Chair at the Centre Emile Durkheim at the University of Bordeaux (2014).

Chloé Ridel is vice president of Institut Rousseau, a think-tank dedicated to think the ecological reconstruction of our societies. She is also president of Mieux Voter, a non-profit aiming to improve democracy with a new voting method, called majority judgment. She worked at the European Commission in Brussels and on European matters at the french Treasury, also for the Romanian ministry for economy and finance during the Romanian presidency of the EU.

Vivien A. Schmidt is Jean Monnet Professor of European Integration in the Pardee School at Boston University and Honorary Professor at LUISS Guido Carli University. Her latest book is Europe's Crisis of Legitimacy: Governing by Rules and Ruling by Numbers in the Eurozone (Oxford 2020). Her book, Democracy in Europe (Oxford 2006), was named in 2015 by the European Parliament as one of the '100 Books on Europe to Remember.' Recent honors and awards include Chevalier in the French Legion of Honor, the European Union Studies Association's Lifetime Achievement Award, and a Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship for the 'Rhetoric of Discontent,' a transatlantic investigation of the populist revolt.

Helmut Scholz is Member of European Parliament since 2009 and serves as Coordinator of THE LEFT in the Committees on Constitutional Affairs and Internal Trade. His main areas of work include the Conference on the Future of Europe, Brexit, European Citizens Initiative, citizens' participation in EU decision-making, democracy, rule of law and human rights. He also sits in Parliament's US, China, Belarus, Moldova and Euronest Delegation. Born in Berlin in 1954, he graduated at the Moscow State Institute for International Relations in political science in 1980 and served as diplomat in the Embassy of the German Democratic Republic in China.

Laura Sullivan is the Executive Director of WeMove Europe, a campaigning organisation that connects the activism of people to opportunities for deep and lasting change. She spent the last two decades as a campaigner advocating for social and environmental justice. Laura started out at the European Parliament working as an MEP Assistant with a focus on the Environmental and Development Committees. She then joined the Trade Union Confederation Education International managing programmes on health and education in Asia and the Caribbean. Laura subsequently spent ten years with ActionAid International running the campaigns in Europe and then as Regional Director for Europe and the Americas. She has an MA in Governance and Development specialising in civil society participation. Her main interests lie in systemic change thinking and feminist leadership. She has a passion for all things related to music, language, and justice.

Zsuzsanna Szelényi is a Richard von Weizsäcker fellow of the Robert Bosch Academy and Former MP, Hungary, foreign policy specialist. As Richard von Weizsäcker fellow Zsuzsanna Szelényi conducts research on polarization and populism as threat on democracy in the context of the future of the European Union. She served as Member of the Hungarian Parliament in 2014-2018 where she covered foreign policy, migration, and constitutional affairs. Between 1996-2010 Ms Szelenyi served at the Council of Europe advising governments and NGOs on democracy, human rights, and conflict management. Ms. Szelenyi started her political career as member of Fidesz, a youth party at the régime change and served as MP in 1990-1994. Ms Szelenyi holds GMAP degree of International Politics from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, and MA of Psychology of the University of Eotvos Lorand in Budapest.

Antoine Vauchez is a CNRS Research Professor at the Université Paris 1-Sorbonne. He has recently completed a series of three books on law, politics, and democracy in the European Union, including a monograph Brokering Europe. Euro-lawyers and the Making of a Transnational Polity (Cambridge University Press, 2015), an essay Democratizing Europe (Routledge, 2016) and a treaty proposal for the democratization of the EU (together with Thomas Piketty : How to Democratize Europe, Harvard UP, 2019 and www.tdem.eu). His most recent book is: The Neoliberal Republic. Corporate Lawyers, Statecraft and the Making of Public-Private France (Cornell UP, 2021)

Maarten Vink is Chair in Citizenship Studies and Director of the Global Citizenship research area within the Global Governance Programme at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies at the European University Institute. He is also Co-Director of the Global Citizenship Observatory (GLOBALCIT) and currently leads the research project "Migrant Life Course and Legal Status Transition (MiLifeStatus)" funded by a Consolidator Grant of the European Research Council (2016-2021). Vink is a member of the High Level Group on Citizenship Innovation, an independent group of experts working on the future of citizenship.

Richard Youngs is senior fellow at Carnegie Europe and professor at the University of Warwick. He is author of thirteen books on issues related to the EU and democracy. At Carnegie he oversees the European Democracy Hub as well as a network of global experts on civic activism.