

EXECUTIVE EDUCATION

Solving today's global problems requires evidence-based learning, thinking and policy formulation across borders....

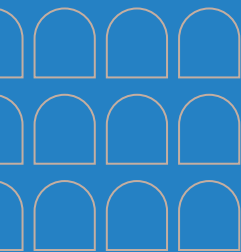

Effective policy-making in the 21st century happens beyond nation states and international borders and involves a multitude of actors.

We train professionals and executives working:

- in national administrations and international organisations
- at the intersection of private business and public government
- in the public affairs sectors of private companies
- in media and NGOs, dealing with policy issues that require approaches beyond the state

A NEW SCHOOL FOR A NEW WORLD

The School of Transnational Governance was founded in 2017 as part of the European University Institute, Italy. The school trains, educates, and inspires current and next-generation global leaders to improve governance beyond the state. Our executive education and training programmes are designed to provide a unique platform where transnational actors across politics, business, civil society, media and academia engage in effective 21st century policy-making.

TRANSNATIONAL POLICY AREAS

To fulfil our mission of creating solutions to cross-border problems, our courses cover a wide range of policy areas and professional skills:

POLICY

- Digital Governance & Data Policy
- Climate Governance
- Migration
- Regulation and Economic Governance
- Human Rights Policy
- International Security Policy
- Gender Issues
- Global Health & Risk Management
- Democratic Governance

PROFESSIONAL SKILLS TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT

- Global Negotiations
- International Leadership & Change Management
- Policy Entrepreneurship

WORLD-CLASS FACULTY AND TRAINERS

Our training is delivered by STG Professors, who combine academic excellence with policy experience, as well as by faculty members from other Departments and Centres of the European University Institute, one of the world's foremost public policy research institutions.

Our professors are complemented by leading policy practitioners who bring skills, knowledge and insights from their real-world experience in decision-making and policy design in international settings.

FORMATS

We offer training courses of different lengths and structures, depending on the subject, teaching methods and learning objectives. Our training sessions run throughout the year and are available online, as residential on-campus courses, and in a hybrid format.

Programmes range from two to seven consecutive days, which may be spread over a longer period of time depending on the level of training needs specific to individual organisations and institutions.

Our campus sits in the cradle of the Renaissance in Florence, Italy, one of the world's most beautiful cities, which only adds to the uniqueness of the residential learning journey.

PARTNERS

The STG Executive Education Programme works in close collaboration with European Union agencies, as well as in partnership with some of the world's finest universities to bring leading cross-border policies to the forefront of global governance.

We are part of the European and Transnational Governance Network of leading public policy schools and offer trainings in collaboration with other European schools of the ETGN.

Some of our training partners:

College of Europe
Collège d'Europe
