

EUROPEAN UNIVERSITY INSTITUTE

ACADEMIC SERVICE

Dr. Andreas C. Frijdal

Head of Service

Florence, May 2007

Vacant chairs at the European University Institute

JOINT CHAIR IN ECONOMICS (ECO-RSC2)

Please find attached an information pack about the Institute and a note setting out further particulars for chair holders in the Department of Economics and in the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies.

Your application should contain the following documents:

- Your curriculum vitae
- An application form, to be completed and returned to us, in which you are invited to provide us with your personal data, the names of four referees, and to list 3 - 5 of your publications you consider most relevant to the post for which you are applying.
- A short research proposal. The research proposal is expected to be of 4 – 5 pages of length and to outline the research you plan to undertake during the first five years were you to be appointed at the Institute. It should give a clear picture of research you want to develop and its relevance for Department's programme and profile. Financial statement is not required, but if you have potential external resources for the funding of the project, they can be mentioned.

The Academic Service assures the strict confidentiality of the application procedure. The deadline for receipt of applications is 15 September 2007.

Further and more up-to-date information about the Institute can be gathered from our website: <http://www.eui.eu>.

We thank you for your interest in the European University Institute and wish you every success with your application.

NB: We accept electronic applications, and in fact welcome them. The e-mail address is applypro@eui.eu. We will acknowledge the receipt of applications. If you submit by e-mail and do not receive an acknowledgment within two working days please contact us by phone (+39.055.4685.377) to make sure that your application has safely arrived.

Please do not send us your publications; in the event, they may not be returned to you.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Andreas Frijdal
Head of Academic Service

EUROPEAN UNIVERSITY INSTITUTE

FURTHER PARTICULARS ABOUT A JOINT FACULTY POSITION IN THE DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS AND THE ROBERT SCHUMAN CENTRE FOR ADVANCED STUDIES

Job description for the vacant chair

The Department of Economics and the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies seek applicants for a Joint Chair in Economics, vacant in January 2008. Candidates should have a strong publication record in Economics journals and experience in the administration of research and other academic activities. To complement and strengthen the EUI's current research focus, the ideal candidate should have demonstrated his or her willingness and ability to study European policy issues for example in monetary policy, trade policy, regulation and competition or public finance.

The Institute is an equal opportunity employer.

The successful candidates will be expected to provide major input in research, teaching, postgraduate supervision and management, as follows:

Research:

- To develop and lead research in the fields mentioned in the profile;
- To promote the integration of his/her research with other research interests within the Department of Economics as well as interdisciplinary research with the other Departments and Centres of the EUI; candidates are invited to take into consideration the research priorities and existing research projects of the Department (<http://www.eui.eu/ECO/People/Faculty/CurrentFaculty.shtml>) and the RSCAS (<http://www.eui.eu/RSCAS/Research/>);
- To maintain a high national and international profile of publications in books and in internationally recognised journals;
- To attract research funding on an individual basis and in collaboration with others.

Teaching and supervision:

- To teach introductory and advanced courses for postgraduate students, the teaching requirement for a joint chair holder is the equivalent of one 10-week course (20 hours) per year ;
- To provide high quality postgraduate supervision and attract research students to the EUI.

Management:

- To make a significant contribution to the promotion of the EUI in his/her country's academic community, and to contribute to the insertion of EUI alumni in professional life, especially in academic careers;
- To make the best use of his/her research budget and try to complement it with outside funding;
- To provide support for the Director of the Centre and the Head of Department, amongst others by serving on appropriate Committees, and to contribute fully to the general life of the Institute;
- To contribute to the promotion of cultural diversity in the Department and the EUI.

Working in the European University Institute

The European University Institute is a postgraduate research institute set up in 1976 by the Member States of the European Union. It is not an institution of the European Union, however: rather, it is an international treaty organisation in its own right, funded directly by the signatory states.

The EUI consists of four academic departments - Economics, History and Civilization, Law, and Political and Social Sciences - an interdisciplinary centre - the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies – and the Max Weber Postdoctoral Programme, supported by administrative, computing and library staff. The research students of the EUI are drawn mainly from the graduates of universities in the Member States, though some students come from Central and Eastern European and Mediterranean countries, and a small number of students from outside Europe.

In order to work effectively we all have to be fluent in English. In the Department of Economics, all academic activities are conducted in English. However all EU official languages are also EUI official languages, and French and Italian (mainly for administration) are the other common working languages.

The Department of Economics

Teaching and Supervision

About 25 postgraduate students are admitted each year to a four-year programme leading to the Ph.D. in Economics. The first year consists of a set of structured courses with instruction in English, and some course work continues into the second year of the programme. Students then undertake full-time research, leading to the submission of a doctoral dissertation and award of the Ph.D. All students from the EUI Member States receive maintenance scholarships (conditional on progress) for 4 years, and for these students there are no fees.

Full-time faculty members teach the equivalent of two 10-week courses per year (40 hours total) as part of the taught-course core of the programme (holders of joint Robert Schuman Centre posts teach only one).

Each faculty member is associated with one of the research workshops with external speakers (currently, Econometrics, Micro, and Macro). These normally meet on a weekly basis, and provide a forum for students, faculty, and outside visitors to discuss current research. There is also an Economic Policy seminar series run by the Department's joint professors in the Robert Schuman Centre. Finally, there are informal working groups where work in progress of students and professors is presented and discussed.

Since about 25 students are admitted each year and a typical student will stay at the Institute for 4 years, each of the 13 full-time faculty members is expected to supervise 9-10 graduate students on average. New members tend to supervise a smaller number of students in the early years of their appointment and accumulate more as time goes by. Faculty members are obliged by their contract of employment to continue supervision of their students after their appointment expires.

Research

Members of the department pursue research and supervise dissertations in their own (broadly defined) field of specialization. The EUI, however, increasingly encourages research work directed at issues of particular concern in a European context. This policy is designed to capitalise on one of the perceived comparative advantages of the Institute and on the existing work of current and recent-past members of the Department. Supervision of policy-oriented technical research is also in heavy demand by the existing student body, and the EUI's policy of consolidating and promoting the relevant expertise among the faculty is designed to provide a signal for potential students that dissertation work in this area will be especially welcome.

Support for research at the EUI is very generous. The library provides excellent coverage for all the EUI's disciplines. There is one employee in the library whose full-time job it is to keep track of the economics collection and to act as a liaison with the Department. The Computer Service has good resources to support research in all areas of Economics.

Faculty research at EUI is funded on an annual basis. Faculty members receive a lump-sum (currently euro 10,000 per year) towards standard research expenses. They may also prepare proposals for cooperative and 'seed' research projects. These are reviewed and may be funded by the Research Council, a group composed of outside academics. In addition, professors are encouraged to raise external funds as the internal resources might cover only part of the needs.

Administrative Duties

Departmental meetings are held monthly. In addition, the Department meets several times per year as an Exam Committee to evaluate students' progress and process the applications of incoming students (shortlisted applicants are interviewed in the spring). One faculty member acts as Head of Department, and meets frequently with the Heads of other Departments and with the President of the Institute to prepare the monthly meeting of all faculty at the Institute, the Academic Council, and make many routine decisions.

Within the Department, some colleagues take responsibility for co-ordinating course-work, admissions, exams, placement, and selection of post-doctoral fellows. Others serve on Institute-level committees, dealing with Library and Information Technology issues, with Computing Services, with Admissions, etc.

As to selection of new colleagues, only some members of the Department sit on Committees charged with submitting a recommendation to Academic Council. All members of the Department, however, cooperate in processing the applications. The Department typically invites shortlisted candidates for a brief visit, including a seminar and opportunities to discuss with students and potential colleagues.

Staff in the Department

The Department of Economics comprises at present 13 professors (two hold a joint appointment with the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies and one serves as Director of the Max Weber Postdoctoral Programme), a Departmental assistant and three secretaries.

Each year a number of post-doctoral fellows join us for a limited period in order to work on their research projects. These often work closely with an individual professor or group of professors. In addition, scholars occasionally visit the Department for shorter periods, offering brief lecture courses in their fields of interest. Additionally, we receive the visits of colleagues from all over the world, who come and present their work in our research workshops series.

The Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies

The Centre was created in 1992 in order to develop interdisciplinary research and to encourage work on the contemporary challenges of European integration. It consists of senior faculty (holding joint chairs with departments), part-time professors, post-doctoral fellows, research fellows and assistants, together with an administrative staff. Its research agenda is focused around several core research themes, currently:

- Institutions, Governance, and Democracy;
- Migration;
- Economic and Monetary Policy;
- Regulation and Competition Policy
- Culture, Knowledge, and Innovation;
- International and Transnational Relations.

The Centre draws its income from a variety of sources, with around two thirds from externally funded grants. It runs an extensive conference programme, and publishes (mainly on-line) working papers, policy papers, research reports and several research tools. Some of its research activities are organised in special programmes, including a Transatlantic Programme and a Mediterranean Programme. The Centre has a strong tradition of research in the field of the European Treaties and, more recently, the European Constitution. Other current initiatives include a large FP6 project on New Modes of Governance, another on Mediterranean migration, research on knowledge markets and technological innovation, a programme on European monetary union. A continuing priority is to produce research and to stimulate debate on issues of reform within the European Union. The Centre has recently reinforced its coverage of security in Europe (internal and external).

There are currently eight joint chairs based in the Centre. Holders of joint chairs are expected to develop a line of research activities in a field that falls within the core research themes of the Centre, and to work with the Director in attracting funding and developing contacts with the wider scholarly community and with the world of practice.

Conditions of employment – salary - benefits

The European University Institute is an equal opportunity employer.

Full-time professors at the EUI are appointed on a five-year contract which may be renewed for further three years. Professors are frequently able to obtain extended leave from their home institutions.

Salary

The amount of take-home salary can vary and depends on seniority, eligibility to expatriation, household and dependent children allowances. The Personnel Service is available for providing more information on the basis of the actual family situation of the short-listed candidates.

Additional benefits

The Institute covers moving expenses to and from Florence (up to a maximum equivalent of a monthly basic salary) in addition to a settlement allowance calculated on each individual family situation.

Faculty members and their families are entitled to a flat-rate payment of travelling expenses from Florence to the place of origin; the flat-rate payment is based on an allowance calculated on distance.

Faculty members at the Institute are covered by health insurance administered by the Joint Sickness Insurance Scheme of the European Communities Ispra Settlements Office. An average of 80% of medical or dental expenses is reimbursed upon presentation of invoices. Some treatment (dental braces, for example) requires authorisation in advance.

There is a generous educational allowance for school or university costs of Institute members' dependent children.

Currently 9,25 percent (increasing to 10,25% in 2 years' time) of an EUI professor's salary is withheld for a severance payment scheme; twice this amount is contributed by the Institute (total monthly contribution = presently 27,75 percent of base salary – 30,75% in two years time). This can be paid into a national or private retirement scheme, or into the Institute's plan. If the latter option is selected, the amount due is paid to the EUI member upon departure.

Under the terms of the treaty establishing the Institute, EUI professors are exempt from income tax on their salary paid by the Institute anywhere in the Contracting states. In lieu of national taxes, a deduction is carried out by the Institute.

Further details on all information contained in this note are available from the Personnel Service.

The recruitment procedure at the EUI

The selection procedure at the EUI has some specific features due to our character as an international (European) organisation, and to the fact that our faculty is based on medium-term appointments with a high level of turn over.

Procedure and organs involved

Several Committees and Councils are involved in our selection procedure, which is regulated by Decision n° 2/03 of the High Council of the EUI:

- the Department of Economics and the RSCAS
- the Academic Council (all EUI professors and the President of the Institute)
- the Research Council (independent external experts in all fields covered by the EUI)
- the Selection Committee

When a chair is vacant, the Department/the Centre submits a profile for the chair to be filled to the Academic Council, for approval by the Research Council, which sets up the Selection Committee.

The composition of the Selection Committee depends on the appointment in question (i.e. a committee for one chair only, joint committee for more than one chair, or committee for a joint chair Department/the RSCAS). The selection committee is composed of professors from the EUI, external experts appointed by the Research Council, the President of the EUI (consultative voice) and a representative of the researcher students (consultative voice). The composition of the Committee is kept confidential until the invitations for interviews are sent to shortlisted candidates. They will receive further information about the composition of the selection committee.

After publication of the vacancy and reception of applications, the Committee may either draw a short list of candidates to be interviewed or turn into a search Committee, which happens whenever the number and/or quality of applications does not seem adequate.

A few weeks after having set up a shortlist, the Committee interviews the candidates and submits a recommendation of one or more candidates to be appointed.

The Committee's recommendation is transmitted to the Academic Council, which acts as a sovereign body for appointments. A recommended candidate is appointed if the majority (50%+1) of members present vote in favour.

Tentative schedule for the present procedure

In the case of the chair at present being advertised, the profile (in the advertised wording) has been approved by the Research Council in May 2007.

The schedule we would like to adhere to is the following:

- shortlisting decisions should be made mid October 2007;
- interviews are planned to take place 12 and 13 November; shortlisted candidates will receive details of the procedure for the interviews, which are usually mainly based on the applicant's research projects;
- the Selection Committee proposal will be submitted to the first available Academic Council;
- a formal offer may be expected late November;
- the successful candidate (or a reserve, should the first-ranked candidate decline) may take up service in January 2008.

Application file

Your file should demonstrate how your application covers the job description above, and it should contain the following elements:

CV: Please present your CV to highlight all elements that are relevant to the profile and job description.

List of publications: Please highlight the publications that are relevant to the profile of the Chair you are applying for. A short summary report on your past and present publications and research linked to the profile would be helpful. Please do not send in publications unless asked for.

Referees: Applicants are requested to submit four names of possible referees whom the EUI may contact. The referees may not include members of the professorial staff of the EUI. Please try to give us the names of referees who know you in both your teaching and a research functions. E-mail addresses or fax numbers are essential in order to get a quick confidential reply.

Research project: Please take great care in presenting your research project(s), which should be designed to cover a five year contract and correspond to the profile. The Selection Committees always attach considerable importance to the quality of the proposals.

The project should preferably be written in English, and have a length of 1500 to 2500 words approximately.

It should specify the objectives and scope of the project and give indications on the background, especially how it relates to work you have already undertaken and published. It should also give some preliminary indications about the methodology you intend to follow in exploring the proposed hypotheses or theories; guidelines; indications as to the empirical components and sources; management of the research especially its organisation and the possible running of a research team.

It should also give some preliminary indications on the type of outcome and the type of support for publication you have in mind.

Formal applications should arrive by 15 September 2007 and be addressed to the Head of Academic Service at the European University Institute, by e-mail (applypro@eui.eu) or by post, Via dei Roccettini 9, I-50014 San Domenico di Fiesole, Italy.

Practical information about life in Florence

Learning Italian

The Institute's language service offers intensive Italian courses in September and less intensive courses throughout the year. Some other European languages are also taught. Florence has an abundance of private language schools.

Housing

Rents are very variable, likely figures for Florence and its immediate surroundings are: 750-1000 Euros for a one-bedroom flat and 1000-1300 Euros for a two-bedroom flat. Larger flats with three or four bedrooms run from 1300-1500 Euros, depending on size and location, and can rise to 2000-2500 Euros (villas or large luxury flats).

The Logistics Service has a Housing Office to help new faculty find suitable private accommodation. It gathers offers of private accommodation (houses, studios and rooms, generally furnished) within a radius of 10 to 12 kms from the Institute. The housing office can provide advice and language help with finding accommodation.

Where to live depends on taste, and you should acquire additional information from the Institute's Housing Office. There is much to be said for renting a casa colonica (farmhouse) in the countryside as this will ensure that you are in contact with the real Italy but it can, however, be somewhat isolated. Equally there is much to be said for living in Florence proper. There is an excellent public transportation system. Living in Florence has all the pluses and minuses of living in a medium-sized city.

Schools

For infants, there is a crèche run by the Institute near Villa Schifanoia. For young children (8 or below), the Italian system should be seriously considered if you intend to remain eight years in Florence. There is a menu of private and public Italian schools to choose from. Many State schools still have a 6-day week, which makes it tough to take weekend trips around Tuscany. Private schools are more likely to have a 5-day a week schedule. Details will vary from school to school, and your own reaction will depend on the national system that you use as a basis for comparison, but the general feeling is that in terms of quality the Italian system is satisfactory. Italian high schools (liceo) are differentiated by type (classico, scientifico, linguistico, others). They have the reputation of offering a traditional, i.e., rigorous but dry programme that gives good preparation for university.

A small French school offers a programme that goes from maternelle to quatrième included and apart from stopping at a critical age does offer a good programme that many at the Institute take advantage of. From troisième up, the liceo "Machiavelli-Capponi" has set up an international section in which some courses (like literature and history) are taught in French.

The American International School offers an elementary through to high-school programme in English. It is small (places should be reserved as soon as possible) and expensive. The high school offers the International Baccalaureate, which is recognised for university entrance throughout the world. Its American high school diploma is also recognised by the Italian government as equivalent to that of a liceo linguistico.

More detailed information about daycare and schools is available in our website at <http://www.eui.eu/Servac/PracticalInformation/Children/>.

Potential applicants requiring information beyond that contained in these further particulars, or who would like to discuss the vacancy informally, are welcome to contact the Head of the Economics Department, Prof. Helmut Lütkepohl (helmut.luetkepohl@eui.eu), tel. +39 055 4685 971, or the Director of the RSCAS, Prof. Stefano Bartolini (Stefano.Bartolini@eui.eu), tel. +39.055.4685.792/796.
