Websites

The Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies has experienced a remarkable surge in digital engagement throughout 2024, marking a transformative year for its online presence. The Centre's commitment to fostering accessible and impactful academic discourse is reflected in the substantial growth of its digital platforms, demonstrating both quantitative expansion and deeper audience engagement.

A Significant Expansion in Digital Reach

In 2024, the Centre managed 52 programme and project websites, representing a striking 73% increase from the previous year's 30 websites. This expansion underscores the growing demand for the Centre's research outputs and the Centre's strategic efforts to enhance its digital infrastructure. This increased online presence has facilitated broader dissemination of research, extending the Centre's influence across diverse audiences.

Strengthening Core Engagement Metrics

The Centre's main website has become a hub of activity, attracting 32.812 unique users in 2024. Visitor interaction with the platform demonstrates a high level of engagement:

Average session duration: 2 minutes, indicating users' sustained interest in the content.

Bounce rate: A remarkably low 18.75%, suggesting visitors are exploring multiple pages and engaging with the site's resources.

Returning visitors: Over 10.000, reflecting strong loyalty among users who consistently return for updated content.

Total events tracked: More than 166.000, evidencing meaningful interactions such as downloads, video plays, and link clicks.

Average page views per active user: 2.04, showcasing sustained exploration of the Centre's content.

Converting Visitors into Loyal Audiences

A key indicator of success is the conversion of one-time visitors into regular audiences. Over 23.5% of active users have become returning visitors, highlighting the Centre's ability to cultivate sustained engagement. Additionally, session dynamics reveal an average of 1.55 visualizations per session, supporting the notion that users are finding relevant content and exploring beyond initial entry points.

Consistency in Traffic and Early 2024 Trends

With 43.167 total sessions recorded in 2024, traffic to the Centre's digital platforms has remained steady throughout the year. Early 2024 trends (January-February) indicate a strong start:

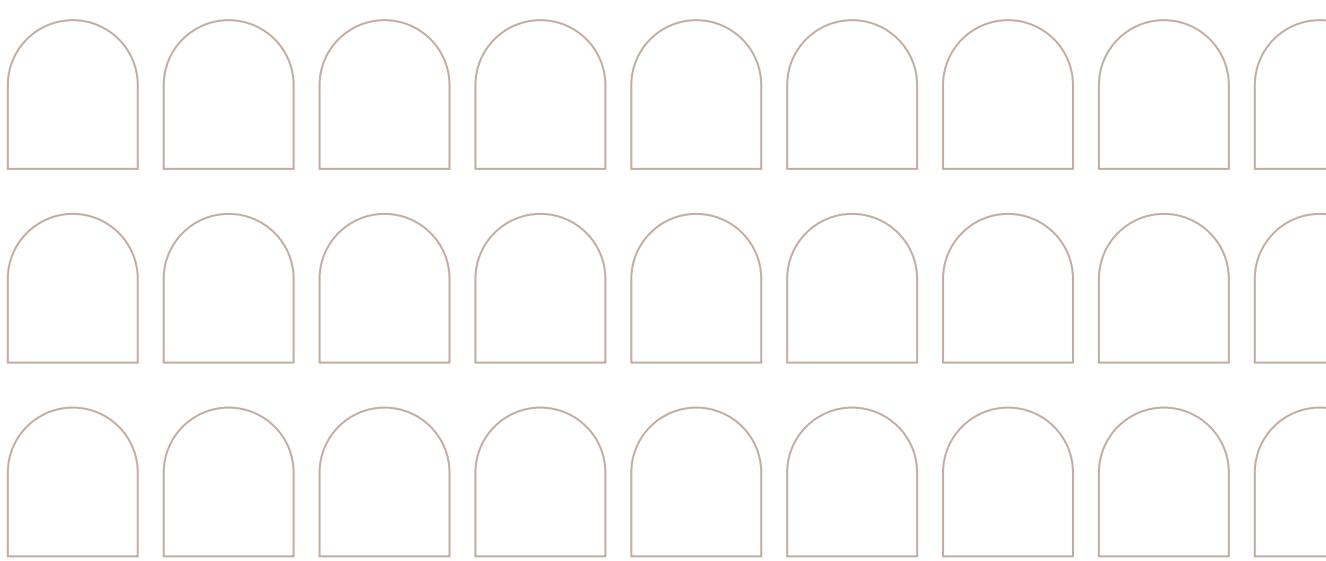

1.82 pages per active user, maintaining robust engagement levels.

Consistent session duration of 1m 50s, reinforcing sustained interaction.

1.459 returning visitors within the first two months alone, setting a positive trajectory for the rest of the year.

A Future of Expanding Digital Influence

These figures illustrate not just a quantitative increase in website traffic but a qualitatively enriched user experience. By providing engaging content, streamlined navigation, and a user-centric digital ecosystem, the Robert Schuman Centre is fostering a vibrant online community committed to academic excellence and policy engagement. As we move forward, these insights will shape further innovations, ensuring the Centre remains at the forefront of digital scholarship and outreach.
